Lifemobile Will Return Monday After a Month of Angry Dispute

This is a story for those who don't believe in happy endings. After a month-long clash of wills and temperaments marked by angry words and letters, Helene Fuld Hospital has agreed to return a lifemobile to Princeton. It is scheduled to be back on a full-time basis at Princeton Medical Center (PMC) this Monday.

The van, which contains advanced life-support equipment and is staffed by trained paramedics, moved out of Princeton a month ago to more comfortable digs at the Princeton Junction Firehouse.

Both Princeton mayors publicly protested the move, as did officials of surrounding municipalities.

The lifemobile is one of three operated by Helene Fuld's Mobile Intensive Care Unit (MICU) program. The three, aided by a fourth daytime lifemobile run by Hamilton Township, serve Mercer and parts of adjoining counties.

The administrators of Helene Fuld and Princeton Medical Center met last Tuesday afternoon in Princeton and agreed to the lifemobile's return. Helene Fuld spokeswoman Elizabeth Bonney noted, however, that the vehicle may still be stationed elsewhere on a temporary basis.

She said the lifemobile at the Mercerville firehouse could be relocated to the Windsor area based on call load and need and noted that during the night, when traffic flow is less, the unit at PMC can readily respond to the Windsors.

The three units in the state MICU program, as of Monday, will be stationed at Princeton Medical Center, the Mercer

Loop Bus Service Ends; $2000 a Month Deficit

The "loop" bus service in Princeton is no more. The little white mini buses that traversed the town ceased operation on April 7, two months after Princeton Mayors Pike and Sigmund asked New Jersey Transit to help the line stay afloat.

Princeton Area Transport (PAT) had been losing some $2,000 each month on the loop, which ran routes through the Borough and Township and was the only form of public transportation serving Elm Court senior housing. It had taken over the operation in November, 1985, after New Jersey Transit abandoned it.

On February 5, the two mayors requested a $26,000 annual subsidy for the line from New Jersey Transit. No reply was ever received, although Township Administrator James Pascale

Grossman, Tomalin, Cooper Win School Board Seats, Budget Passes

The two challengers, Allen "Skip" Grossman and Joel Cooper, have unseated incumbents Michael Mahoney and Rosemary McGee for seats on the Princeton Regional School Board.

Incumbent Michael Tomalin was also a winner in the Township.

The school budget was approved by the 5.8 percent of registered voters (864) who turned out on a rainy Tuesday. The current expense budget was passed by a vote of 634 to 165, while the capital budget was approved by 606 to 187.

Mr. Grossman received 212 votes to Mr. Mahoney's 187 to claim the one Borough seal on the ballot.

Mr. Cooper was the top vote getter in the Township, with 319 votes. Mr. Tomalin was second with 246 and Rosemary C. McGee polled 221 votes.

The two successful challengers had each served previously on the board. Mr. Cooper had to leave his Borough seat when he moved into the Township, as well as wait a specified period before being allowed to run again. Mr. Grossman served on the board from 1980-84.

Although turnout was light — typical of a school board election — it was a distinct improvement over last year, when there was no school board contest. Then, only 2.1 percent of Princeton's registered voters showed up at the polls.

California Woman Named to Superintend Princeton Schools

Dr. Carol B. Choye, a native Californian who is currently directing the San Francisco School District's $19.5 million court-ordered desegregation program, has been named superintendent of Princeton Regional Schools.

She earned degrees at the University of California at Berkeley and the University of San Francisco, and has served in a number of capacities in the San Francisco Unified School District.

Beginning as an elementary school teacher, she became an assistant principal for five years and a principal for three. In 1977, she became an area superintendent and then took on administrative responsibility in such areas as curriculum, staff development, and program evaluation. Her current title is associate superintendent for integration.

Dr. Choye, 47, was selected from two finalists; the other was Ridgefield, Conn., School Superintendent Elliott Landon. They were described by School Board President Michael Mahoney as "two excellent people." The selection was made last week after visits to San Francisco and Ridgefield by board members.

The board head said that Dr. Choye has a reputation for getting the job done and that she lends new perspective as well as the experience of achieving excellence in a diverse community.

The two districts, Princeton and San Francisco, both have a diversity of students. But they couldn't be less similar in size. San Francisco has 65,000 students in 32 elementary schools, 16 middle schools and 12 high schools. Princeton's 2200 students fit into two elementary schools, one middle school and one high school.

Dr. Mahoney said Dr. Choye sounded delighted when he called to inform her of the board's choice. In a phone interview, she confirmed that she was both excited and very pleased. She said she had been impressed by the board, community, students and staff, and was delighted with the opportunity to live and work in Princeton..

Dr. Choye said she was impressed by the commitment to education and to the young people of Princeton, and she observed that the cosmo-

SOC Has Imposed Ban On Sewer Connection

At a special noontime meeting last Monday, the Sewer Operating Committee (SOC) formally imposed a sewer connection ban in the Borough and Township.

By fine bureaucratic logic, that action makes it possible for developers to request an exemption from the ban along strict guidelines established by the N.J. Department of Environmental Protection. Collins Development, which has been unable to secure a building permit for its Hulfish North project, was expected to be the first to file an application for an exemption.

Coalition Plans Talk With New Zealand MP

The Coalition for Nuclear Disarmament will hold a "talk-together" on Sunday at 3:30 with former New Zealand Parliament member Marilyn Waring. The discussion will be held in the social hall of Trinity Church, and the public is encouraged to attend.

Ms. Waring is in the U.S. working on her book, Redressing the Balance: A Case for the Inclusion of Women in International Economic Systems. Her stay is sponsored by the Center for the American Woman in Politics of the Eagleton Institute of Politics, and by Douglass College.

Ms. Waring served in Parliament from 1975 to 1984, and she played a role in forcing an election leading to a change in her country's government over the issue of barring U.S. Navy ships carrying nuclear weapons from New Zealand waters. She represented New Zealand at the U.N. Mid-Decade Conference on Women and other gatherings, and she also directed the first training school for potential women candidates for public office in New Zealand.

She is a free-lance consultant, lecturer and writer who is known in her country as a feminist activist and a leader in the fight against nuclear weapons. She is the author of Women, Politics and Power (1985), and she also created and edited a series of seven dialogues for television on "Power and Powerlessness."

For information call the Coalition at 924-5022.

was promised a response at the end of March.

PAT President Barry Coleman said the company decided it could no longer afford to run the loop at a loss. The line had attracted some 80 passengers a day.

"I'm sad it won't continue," he said, "but someone has to pay the costs. This was an opportunity for Princeton to have its own service. It's just too bad it couldn't come up with the money."

"While not losing the money any longer is helpful," said Mr. Coleman, "we would rather run the service at a break-even level."

ville Firehouse, and Helene Fuld Hospital.

The lifemobile in Princeton will serve, on a first-call basis, the Princetons and parts of Hopewell, Pennington, Montgomery and Franklin.

Jane Kerney, PMC's director of public relations, said the hospital was delighted that the lifemobile was coming back. She said the hospital would provide space for the crew and its equipment, but wasn't certain yet where this space would be.

Helene Fuld is still planning to press forward with its request for a fourth lifemobile for its MICU program. Ms. Bonney said this vehicle can be justified and that the hospital will apply for it to the State Department of Health. A decision on where it will be placed will be made if and when permission for the additional lifemobile is granted.

PMC, on the other hand, is backing off somewhat from its demand for a fourth vehicle that would be run independently by the medical center.

"We won't push for the fourth vehicle right now," said Ms. Kerney. "We'll wait until things begin to settle down and then we'll see."

politan nature of San Francisco can be seen in Princeton.

The new superintendent, who is single, currently lives in San Francisco's marina district. She is interested in music and theater, and holds a season ticket to the symphony. She also enjoys the theater in New York and is a football fan who "loves the 49ers."

At a meeting early this week, the Princeton Regional School Board approved a 35-month contract for Dr. Choye, beginning July 1, at an annual salary of $75,000. The state grants automatic tenure to school superintendents after three years and one day. By confining the contract to 35 months, the board retains control of the tenure decision.

Dr. Choye will replace Paul Houston, who is leaving the superintendent's post in June to head the Tucson, Ariz., school district. Dr. Mahoney said that when Dr. Houston was hired nine years ago his main job was to bring harmony to the district.

"Now we have a new set of hopes," he said, "and we have confidence Dr. Choye will help us along."

TOPICS Of The Town

Joint Historic Review Recommended by ZARC

The Planning Board's Zoning Amendment Review Committee (ZARC) has recommended that a joint Historic Preservation Review Committee be established to oversee development in Borough and Township historic districts.

A Township historic sites ordinance incorporating this recommendation was scheduled to be discussed by Township Committee in work session Tuesday night as TOWN TOPICS went to press. Last spring, after repeated attempts over the years to adopt such an ordinance in Borough and Township — attempts that were dropped at the urging of Princeton University and other institutions in town — the community's first historic sites ordinance was adopted in the Borough without controversy.

That ordinance established three historic districts and set up a Historic Preservation Review Committee to review applications for changes to the exterior of buildings within these districts. Shortly thereafter, Township Mayor Winthrop S. Pike appointed a new citizens' Ad Hoc Historic Sites Committee headed by Charles St. John to develop an historic sites ordinance for the Township.

Then and on subsequent occasions, Mayor Pike and Mr. St. John each expressed a preference for a joint Borough-Township Historic Preservation Review Committee. Two versions of an historic sites ordinance were prepared by the ad hoc committee: one establishing a joint review committee, and the other establishing a Township only committee.

After reviewing both versions, ZARC is recommending that the joint version be adopted. The joint version was expected to be introduced by Township Committee at its meeting Tuesday and then sent to the Planning Board for its approval. If the Planning Board approves, as is likely to be the case, and if Committee adopts the measure after public hearing, it will be necessary to bring the Borough ordinance in line with the Township ordinance to establish a joint Historic Preservation Review Committee.

The Township ordinance also designates 10 historic districts, some of which are "districts" in the true sense of the word, others of which are individual properties. The districts include Kingston Mill Historic District, which has just been named to the state register of historic places and is expected to be named to the national register as well. This district includes the big red mill building on the Millstone River below Lake Carnegie and four early homes on Route 27 and Herrontown Road.

Other districts named in the ordinance are Battlefield Park, which is also included on state and national registers; Drumthwacket, which is now the official governor's mansion; Princeton Turning Basin, with its old hotel at the foot of Alexander Street; and the D&R Canal Park.

At the request of some of the property owners, individual properties have been named in the ordinance by lot number on the Township tax map. Property ownership is a matter of public record, however, and it should be fairly obvious to anyone with any knowledge of Princeton history that Tusculum, for instance, the farmstead built by John Witherspoon, president of the College of New Jersey and signer of the Declaration of Independence, is one of the designated properties.

The joint version establishes

Mark April 26 on Your Calendar For This Year's Art People Party

On Saturday, April 26, Nassau Street in front of Princeton University, the adjoining block of Witherspoon Street, and Nassau Green on campus will be the scene of the Art People Party. Rain date is April 27.

There will be dancing (ballet and folk), music (classical to rock), mimes and jugglers, puppeteers, craftspeople demonstrating and selling their wares, and information booths. All activities will be conducted by people who live, work, or study within a five-mile radius of the Arts Center on Witherspoon Street. There'll be continuous performances in at least four locations by more than 40 performing groups, and booths will be set up for some 70 exhibitors.

The day will also offer a chance to sample food from local caterers and restaurants and to shop at special sales offered by downtown merchants (all of whom will be open for business as usual). Passersby can try a hand at drawing or making a mark on a community mural to be stretched out down the middle of Witherspoon Street — or learn how to make a square bubble, watch a life-sized chess game with students acting as chess pieces, or take the children to a performance of The Land of Pog by Creative Theatre.

For up-to-date information on special parking locations, times of performances, and other information, call 1-800-648-1411 or 924-8001.

Applications to participate are still available at the Arts Council Building, 102 Witherspoon Street.

One of the Borough members is to be the owner-operator of a business within a historic preservation district, and one the owner of a residence within an historic district. Two regular members are to be members of the Site Plan Review Advisory Board, appointed by SPRAB, one from each municipality.

1986 Budget Is Adopted By Borough Government

The $8.7 million municipal budget for Princeton Borough was approved and adopted by Council at its meeting last week.

Tax rates for Borough property owners will rise ten percent, from 50 cents per $100 of assessed valuation to 55 cents.

The school tax in the Borough is expected to go up from $1.10 to $1.17 and the estimated Mercer County tax will be 96 cents, up from 90 cents last year.

The total tax rate will be $2.68 per $100 of assessed valuation, a rise of 7.2 percent from last year's $2.50 rate.

A person whose property is assessed at $100,000 will thus pay $2,680 in taxes this year. Last year's tax bill was $2,500. The owner of property assessed at $200,000 will see his or her property tax bill rise from $5,000 to $5,360.

Commenting on the budget, Councilman Marvin Reed said that both the school and county rates had gone up considerably and that the municipality had to absorb the increases of other governing bodies, "thus denying the Borough certain improvements." (At a preliminary meeting, Council had approved a budget of 57.5 cents per $100; this was later reduced to 55 cents.)

"I hope the schools will appreciate that the Borough absorbed the one-cent increase that resulted from the state's chipping off two percent of aid early in February," said Mr. Reed. (This move by the state resulted in a one-cent increase in the Borough school tax.)

In other business, Borough Council agreed to purchase a 55 foot high bucket truck at a cost of about $80,000. This would be used to trim tall trees in Jugtown and other parts of the Borough.

Sean Burns of the Public Works Department told mayor and council that the truck would cost about $8,000 a year to operate and would result in a $2,775 increase in fleet insurance.

These figures appeared less formidable when contrasted with the estimated $125,000 it would cost to trim only the trees in Jugtown. Another contractor's estimate was for $7,000 per dozen to top and shape trees and clear obvious branches.

The Borough's capital budget will be amended to include the $80,000 purchase. An ordinance to this effect will be introduced May 13.

Democrats Name Two For Race in Township

It will be the battle of the sexes in the contest for two seats on Township Committee this fall.

Township Democrats have selected Janet Mitchell and Phyllis Marchand as their candidates for the two seats currently occupied by Mayor Winthrop S. Pike and Committeeman William H. Cherry, both Republicans. Mayor Pike has announced he will not seek re-election to a third term, but Mr. Cherry will run as an incumbent for his fourth term, along with Republican newcomer Toms B. Royal.

Ms. Mitchell is making her second attempt for a seat on Township Committee, which, two years ago when she first ran, had a single Democrat and has since become all-Republican. Ms. Mitchell is a real estate sales associate with K. M. Light and owner of a small business which publishes The Mitchell Guide to Foundotions. A Township resident for 28 years, and parent of two children in Princeton public schools, she first became involved in municipal affairs when she served on the 1976 high school bond referendum advisory committee.

She is a trustee of the New Jersey Historical Society and a member of its Morven committee; a member of the Princeton Committee of the NAACP Legal Defense Fund; and a lecturer in fund raising at the Adult School. She has also been active with the Smith College Club, the Professional Roster, the Princeton Dog Training Club and the Friends of New Jersey Public Broadcasting.

Mrs. Marchand has lived in the Princeton area for 20 years and in the Township for the past 14 years. Her three children have also attended Princeton Regional Schools — her youngest is presently at Princeton High School.

A free lance book indexer and editorial consultant, Mrs. Marchand is the indexer for the Papers of Woodrow Wilson at Princeton University. She is a member of the McCarter Theatre board of trustees, the Princeton High School PTO, and the YWCA Adult Program Committee. She served on the Township's Citizens Advisory Committee for Cable Television and as publicity co-chair for the 1976 and 1977 June Fetes. She has been active in Johnson Park and John Witherspoon School PTO boards and the McCarter Associates board.

Fewer Trees Planned In Towpath Restoration

A revised restoration plan for the two-mile stretch of the towpath between the Delaware & Raritan Canal and Lake Carnegie was presented to the public last week.

The meeting was sponsored by the D&R Canal Commission and held last Wednesday in the Plainsboro municipal court room. The Commission was expected to vote its formal acceptance of the restoration plan at its regular meeting Tuesday, April 15.

A two-mile section of the towpath between the Millstone aqueduct and the Kingston Lock was stripped of trees and shrubs during canal dredging operations conducted by the New Jersey Water Supply Authority last year. A restoration plan presented last September at a meeting in the Valley Road building called for new plantings on both sides of the towpath as well as allowing selected stumps to regenerate.

The new plan is much more selective about the number of stumps on the canal side of the towpath that will be allowed to grow back into trees and bushes, and eliminates entirely any new plantings on that side of the towpath. D&R Canal Commission officials and officials of the New Jersey Water Supply Authority are concerned that trees growing close to the canal embankment will damage the stone lining. They also wish to keep limbs from falling into the canal, which is a source of drinking water for thousands of New Jersey residents.

Of the estimated 800 stumps growing between the towpath and the canal in that two-mile stretch, 201 will be permitted to regenerate. On the Lake Carnegie side of the towpath, 400 stumps have been selected as candidates for regeneration, and all will be allowed to grow into trees.

In addition some 468 new trees and 500 new shruos will be planted, all between the towpath and Lake Carnegie. The plant material will be limited to native species and will provide canopy, understory and shrub layers. There will be flowering as well as shade species, and the landscape plan will provide what D&R Commission Executive Director James Amon calls "a variety of experiences" for the person walking along the canal.

The walker will move from a tree and shrub enclosed space to an open area and back into enclosed space again, Mr. Amon says. The plan was drawn up by landscape architect Larry Lockwood for PRC Engineers, consultants to the Water Authority on the dredging of the entire canal. It is estimated to cost the Water Authority $110,000.

Rosemary Blair and Margen Penick, chair and vice-chair, respectively of the D&R Canal Coalition, a citizens' group, voiced opposition to the revised plan and urged instead that all stumps on the canal side of the towpath be allowed to resprout. They argue that the canal is a buffer to the urbanization that is taking place on Route 1 and as such needs dense foliage to screen out noise and the view of cars and trucks.

Stolen Car Is Recovered PU Student Is Charged

A Princeton University student has been charged by Borough police with possession of a 1983 Mercury that had been reported stolen March 7 to Princton Township police.

Michael Lopez, 24, was arrested at 3:10 Sunday morning by Ptl. Mark Stillitano, after he entered the car, which police and university security had under surveillance, and drove away on Prospect Avenue.

Lopez, charged with possession of stolen property, was later released after posting $100. He is scheduled to appear May 21 in Borough court. A companion in the car, who police said knew nothing of the circumstances, was not charged.

According to Borough police, the car, registered to the Student Volunteers Council of Princeton University and used for short trips by students, had been stolen from a university lot located in the Township. Township police were notified and an insurance company had paid the $6,200 value of the car.

Saturday evening at 8:43, police were informed by university security that the car had been observed parked in Lot 3 on campus. A surveillance team headed by Ptl. Stillitano was set up.

At 3:10 Sunday morning, Ptl. Stillitano saw two suspects walk toward the car and get in. It left the lot and headed south on Prospect where it was stopped.

Lopez told the officer that he was borrowing the car and had just gotten the keys.

The police investigation however, revealed that Lopez had worked for the Student Volunteers Council, had borrowed the car and never returned it.

15,000 Hands Are Needed for Princeton Link-Up

The "Hands Across America" project, a human chain stretching from New York to Los Angeles, will come straight through Princeton. It is scheduled to take place Sunday, May 25, at 3 p.m.

Designed to raise millions of dollars for hunger relief, the coast-to-coast link-up of millions of Americans will come right along Nassau Street. Princeton is one of 34 towns in New Jersey through which the line will form.

Princeton resident Joan Bartl has been named municipal coordinator for the 5.6 miles of Princeton Borough and Township through which the project is planned. Ms. Bartl is responsible for publicizing the event here and recruiting volunteers to join hands along the route. She estimates that at least 7,500 people will be needed in the Princeton line.

Hands Across America is described as the largest participatory event in the history of the world. It is an off-shoot of, and sponsored by, the successful United Support of Artists for Africa (USA for Africa) which planned and produced the "We Are the World" recording. "Hands" hopes to raise between $50 and $100 milllion to combat hunger and homelessness in this country.

The unprecedented event, calling for millions of Americans to join hands for 20 minutes on Memorial Day weekend, will cover some 4,000 miles from New York to Los Angeles. It will require six million people to cover the entire route. The line will travel through 16 states, including New Jersey. It will begin in New York City and come across the George Washington Bridge into New Jersey.

Cutting through Bergen County, portions of Hudson County and into Newark and Elizabeth, the line will wind through Middlesex County to Route 27 through New Brunswick and Princeton, before entering Route 206 to Trenton and Pennsylvania. Some 97,000 people will be needed to fill the 73 miles of the route in New Jersey alone.

Those wishing to participate must make a minimum donation of $10, in return for which they will receive a place on the line along with an official "Hands" certificate. For $25, a T-shirt will be added, and for $35 or more, donors will also receive a sturdy sun visor and a "Hands Across America" pin.

Those wishing to join the line and make a pledge may call Hands Across America locally at 921-2373, or the national toll-free number, 1-800-USA-9000.

Cribbs faces a May 21 hearing in Borough court.

Robber Beats Restorer To Antique Chandelier

A $3,000 antique chandelier, scheduled to be restored, was stolen during the weekend from Williamson Hall on the Westminster Choir College campus.

According to police, the 60-year-old large glass and brass chandelier, measuring 24 inches in diameter, had been taken down from the ceiling and placed on the floor, in preparation for its pickup by a restorer.

Police said there were no signs of forced entry in connection with the theft which took place between 5 p.m. Friday and 7 the next morning.

In a late report last week to Township police, a 12-year-old student at John Witherspoon School listed the theft on March 27 of her silver-plated flute from her school locker. It is valued at $615.

A Sears 35 mm camera valued at $400 has been stolen from a bedroom dresser in the home of a Leigh Avenue resident, and a $275 Kodak slide projector was stolen last week from an unlocked projection booth in the School of Architecture building on the Princeton University campus.

In other thefts, a 10-inch metal sign valued at $154 was stolen overnight last week from a lamp post in front of the Kimble Funeral Home, 1 Hamilton Avenue; a packet of 33 Trentonian newspapers worth $8.25 left outside the Somerset Farms store, 55 State Road, was stolen between 5:45 and 7 a.m., and a license plate (ZSK-152) was stolen from the 1973 VW of a Juniper Row resident, who was advised to report the theft to the state Motor Vehicle Department.

A Cedar Lane resident told police that he had been awakened at 3:40 Monday morning by a loud noise. He discovered the next morning that the noise had been caused by a thief breaking the driver's side window of his 1985 Nissan with a large rock. Missing is his radar detector valued at $295.

Two bicycles were reported stolen last week. One, an unlocked women's model valued at $80, was taken from in front of the public library and the second, a 10-speed red Schwinn valued at $150, was taken from the garage of a Snowden Lane resident.

In an attempted burglary last week, a suspect fled from an office in the Princeton Arts Council Building, 102 Witherspoon Street, when he was surprised by a worker.

Police report the worker had just completed teaching a class in the basement and had returned to an office to find the suspect crouched behind a desk. The suspect, who bolted from the office without saying a word, is described as a black male, 18 to 21, heavy set, with short, cropped hair, wearing a black leather jacket.

CDS Charge. In the aftermath of a police investigation of a domestic violence report, Valerie Santos, 33, 38 Leigh Avenue, has been charged by Township police with possession of less than 25 grams of a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana). Her hearing in Township court last week was postponed.

Ptl. John Seeley Jr. had responded to a 4:45 call Thursday morning, complaining of noise from a heated argument. During his investigation, the officer found a plastic bag in a pocket of Santos' coat on the couch in her apartment. The bag allegedly contained vegetation believed to be marijuana.

Three Charges. Borough police have charged Parris Daniels, 21, of Lytle Street, with theft, possession of stolen property and harrassment, following his arrest last week inside the Quadrangle Club, 33 Prospect Avenue.

When police responded to a 9:43 call Thursday evening, they found several members of the club pinning Daniels to the floor. Daniels was shouting profanities at his captors, police said.

The police investigation revealed that a club member had approached Daniels in the coat room area. When he asked if he could be of help, Daniels attempted to conceal something behind his back. He threw it away when the club member asked to see what it was.

The object turned out to be a wallet which Daniels had allegedly removed from a coat pocket of a club member. It contained $33 and credit cards.

A SOOTHING SOUND: Leah Hokenson, 7, a student at the Waldorf School of Princeton, is shown playing a hand-crafted child's harp. The school is holding a raffle for the instrument, which is pentatonically tuned and harmonious even in a beginner's hands. Tickets will be sold Saturday from 11 to 2 in Palmer Square.

Is This Bud for You? Kingston Pair Charged

Two 17-year-old Kingston juveniles were arrested early Sunday morning and charged as minors in possession of alcohol after police stopped their car and observed a case of Budweiser beer on the rear seat.

Ptl. Dennis McManimon had stopped their car on Nassau Street near Cedar Lane at 1:31 for broken rear taillight lenses. As he apprnached the car, he saw the case in plain view on the rear seat.

Both youths were later released to a parent of one of the accused. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that police have not been able to determine the circumstances involving the purchase of the beer.

Runaways Picked Up. Two 12-year-old runaways from Roebling and Florence were picked up by Township police last week and later turned over to their parents.

The youths, police said, had attempted to enter the First Aid Squad building on Harrison Street Thursday afternoon and had run off when confronted by a squad member, leaving their bicycles and knapsacks behind.

Police called Florence police after noting that both youths, who had spend the night in woods near Quaker Bridge Mall, matched a teletype alarm issued by the Florence PD.

Car Windows Are Broken In Lot on Hulfish Street

Three cars parked last week in the lot off Hulfish Street had their windows broken.

One, a 1984 van owned by a Trenton resident, had its right front window broken out by a piece of concrete that was found in the front seat. Nothing was taken.

While Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt was checking the lot after investigating the above crime, he discovered that the left front window of a 1983 Honda had been punched out. No object was found and the owner, an Edison resident, told police nothing was missing from the interior.

Less fortunate is the Princeton owner of a BMW parked in the same lot. Someone, police said, broke a passenger door window to reach in and steal a

The owner of a 1984 Mercedes, also a Princeton resident, found himself faced with a $300 repair bill, after someone used a sharp object to leave scratches on the hood, trunk lid and passenger-side door. Police report the car had been parked overnight in a lot off Nassau Street between Chestnut and Pine Streets.

When asked if acts of vandalism to parked cars have increased, Chief Michael Carnevale replied: "They have become all too common of late.

"It's very disturbing. We are doing our level best," Chief Carnevale concluded, "to investigate and apprehend the guilty parties."

Bicyclist, 16, Is Charged In Accident on Wiggins

A 16-year-old bicyclist was charged last week with making an unsafe turn, after she turned in front of a car traveling on Wiggins Street.

The cyclist, Sarah Jackson, 86 Jefferson Road, was riding along the curb immediately in front of a car operated by Janet G. Penfield, 308 Emmons Drive. When she attempted to turn left onto Vandeventer Avenue, she cut directly in front of the car and was struck.

She was thrown by the impact onto the hood of Mrs. Penfield's car, cracking its windshield. Miss Jackson was placed in an East Windsor First Aid Squad ambulance, which had stopped at the scene, and taken to Princeton Medical Center. There she was treated for injuries to her neck, shoulder and back, and numerous abrasions and contusions, and released.

Ptl. William Clark investigated the mishap which took place Thursday afternoon a few minutes after 3.

Kiosk Still Closed

Some two weeks after the date it was set to reopen, the kiosk at Palmer Square remains shut. Right now, says Collins Development Corp. Vice President Gary Green, the lease is at the offices of Suburban Transit awaiting the signature of Ken Kuchin. Mr. Kuchin, a principal in the bus firm, is expected back from Florida later this week.

Mr. Green says he knows of no problems with the lease at Suburban Transit, which is scheduled to take over the operation of the kiosk from Paul and Donna Bevansee. However, he declined to name an opening date.

Marrow Charged Again

Township police last week added two more charges to the long list against Christopher Marrow, 23, of Birch Avenue. Marrow, who had been charged earlier by Borough police with kidnapping and sexually assaulting a 42-year-old Borough woman, was charged Monday by Township police with sexual assault and robbery.

Capt. Jack Petrone reported that Marrow allegedly sexually assaulted the victim in a garage located on Birch Avenue in the Township and had also taken her to a bank in the Princeton Shopping Center where he forced her to use a bank card to withdraw $200 from an automatic teller machine.

Township police sent detainers on the charges to the Trenton Detention Center where Marrow was being held awaiting a bail hearing.

Medical Center Offering Childbirth Class Series

Prepared childbirth classes will begin at Princeton Medical Center on Thursday and continue for the next five weeks. The course of five, 2½-hour classes is designed to prepare expectant parents for the birth experience.

Classes are held from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the Valley Road School. The certified childbirth educators will teach relaxation and breathing technique and discuss physical and emotional aspects of childbirth and the post-partum period. A tour of the Maternity Department is included in the program.

For further information call the Department of Education, 734-4570.

'Reading Films' Topic Of Seminars on Campus

The Gauss Seminars in Criticism at Princeton University will hold a colloquium Friday and Saturday, April 25 and 26, entitled "Reading Films."

This year's colloquium, designed to attracted interested persons both inside and outside the university, is organized around Erwin Panofsky's claim that films do not present themselves as texts of an immediately legible sort, any more than works in the other arts do. Rather they are something that one learns to read.

The program includes a lecture Friday at 7 and two films on Saturday, at 9 and at 2:30.

The invited speakers, Dudley Andrew, Annette Michelson and Stanley Cavell, have each been asked to interpret a single film. The three films to be discussed, Lo Bete Humaine, Three Songs of Lenin and Gaslight will be shown directly before each lecture and also Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, respectively, April 22-24, at 8 p.m. in 10 McCosh

WE ARE THE WOOL.

You can help us make the world a warmer place.

Through the year, we accumulate a number of pure wool sweaters, jackets, hats, scarves, and mittens that, for various reasons, we can't sell. These customer returns, display samples, shopworn or imperfect woolens are still nice, warm garments that could make someone's life a bit warmer and more pleasant.

If you belong to or know of a charity that can use these warm woolen garments to make life more liveable for needy people anywhere, send a brief explanation on organization letterhead to:

Cafe Friends Formed

A new organization, Friends of the Princeton Youth Cafe, has been formed to gain support from the community for the cafe. Its main thrust is to raise money for equipment and furnishings for the Valley Road gym, which houses the teen cafe on Friday and Saturday nights.

Right now, the group is seeking donations to buy a pool table, soda machine, tables, lighting, and other furniture and equipment. In addition to reaching out to the community, students have written fund-raising letters to some half dozen area corporations.

Anyone wishing to donate to the Youth Cafe should send a check, payable to "Princeton Youth Fund," to Princeton Youth Fund, Inc., P.O. Box 1240, Princeton, N.J. 08540.

Princeton Regional Sets Kindergarten Registration

The Princeton Regional Schools have scheduled the first series of dates for registering children eligible for entrance into kindergarten in September. The dates are Tuesday, April 22, from 7 a.m. to 10 a.m.; Wednesday, April 23, from 9 a.m. to noon; and Thursday, April 24, from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. at the Community Park and Riverside Elementary Schools. To be eligible, a child would need to have his/her fifth birthday on or before November 30, 1986. The child should be registered at the school to be attended in September.

It is not necessary for parents to bring their children to registration. They should, however, bring their child's birth certificate and medical records, particularly immunization records. Under State law, students who lack the following immunizations by September cannot be admitted until they have each one: DPT, oral polio, measles vaccine, rubella vaccine, and mumps vaccine.

Parents not fluent in English are welcome to bring a friend to interpret. Parents are also encouraged to inform the kindergarten teacher or school nurse during registration of any conditions which might affect educational planning for the child.

Play Program for Kids To Open in Princeton

Gymboree, the largest movement/play program in the United States for children three months to four years, will open at Trinity Church the week of April 21. The Princeton center is the 230th to open nationally and the first to open in the Mercer County area.

Gymboree is a parent participation program. All play equipment and activities are designed to enhance the development of motor skills and to stimulate the senses.

For further information on Gymboree, write to Lynn Wansley, 57 Colfax Road, Skillman, N.J., 08558, or call 466-2145.

Sunday Talks Planned On Italians in America

The first two talks in the series, "Italians in America — The New Jersey Experience," will take place Sunday at 2 at Dorothea House, 120 John Street. They will describe the background of New Jersey's Italian-Americans — where they came from, where they settled, and what they are doing today.

In his presentation, "The Cultural Legacy of the Mezzogiorno," Dr. Robert Marchisotto will trace the immigrants' Italian origins and describe the New Jersey areas in which they settled.

Dr. Concetta A. Maglione, in "New Jersey Italian-Americans Today," will look at one community in detail, contrasting the attitudes of succeeding generations of residents.

The programs are sponsored by the Central Jersey Chapter of the American Italian Historical Association. They coincide with the 100th anniversary celebration of the Statue of Liberty and commemorate the spiritual significance of the statue for the 100,000 Italian immigrants who settled in the state.

The program is open to the public. For further information, call Robert Immordino at 882-7138.

Clarke House Needs Volunteers

Changes are in the works for the Thomas Clarke House in Princeton Battlefield State Park. The house, an 18th-century Quaker Farm that was witness to the Battle of Princeton in 1777, is in the process of being re-created into a working farm.

Volunteers are now being sought to help in this transformation. Part of their role will be to dress in 18th-century costumes and give tours and demonstrations of early American skills such as spinning, dyeing, and hand dipping candles.

Families are welcome. Children can help demonstrate chores or play period games. Prior experience and special skills are not necessary.

Workshops will be offered throughout the year for volunteers, who will form their own organization, elect officers and work with the Clarke House professional staff to create programming for school groups, tours, and special events.

Volunteers are also needed to sew costumes at home and to help with fund raising for projects.

For further information, call the Clarke House at 921-0074.

Herb Workshops Planned For Adults Each Month

Salli Squitieri will offer a monthly workshop on herbs at the Arts Council of Princeton, 102 Witherspoon Street, beginning April 23.

Scheduled for Wednesdays from 1 to 2 p.m., each workshop will introduce a different aspect of herbology.

Some crafts to be included are the making of potpourri, sachets, spice ropes, bath bags, catnip bags and pomanders.

Ms. Squitieri, a self-taught herbalist, has been working with herbs for over 12 years. She has given presentations nationwide and has sold her herbal products in the United States and Canada.

Advance registration is required. For further details, call Ms. Squitieri at 924-5318 or the Arts Council at 924-8777.

Edward Witten

Edward Witten, 34, a Princeton University physicist and one of the world's leaders in new developments in superstring theory that may unify gravity with other forces of nature, has been selected by the National Science Foundation to receive the 1986 Alan T. Waterman Award.

Prof. Witten was selected from 165 nominees to receive the award, which includes a medal and NSF grants of up to $100,000 a year for three years of research and advanced studies. The award is given annually to an outstanding young researcher in any field of science, mathematics or engineering.

The award will be presented at a formal dinner ceremony May 14 at the Department of State. Dr. Witten's work is part of a worldwide effort on the part of physicists to unite, in a single theory, what have long been regarded as the four basic forces in nature: electromagnetism; the "strong" force, which binds the atomic nucleus; the "weak" force, which is responsible for certain kinds of radioactivity; and gravity.

Physicists have recently succeeded in unifying the electromagnetic and weak forces, and may be close to uniting this "electroweak" force with the strong force. Gravity, however, resists unification. Physicists have been trying for decades to include it in a comprehensive theory with other forces — a problem that Einstein spent his last 30 years working on without success.

Recently, however, physicists have been excited by the possibility that superstrings may pave the way for a grand synthesis of all forms of matter and energy. The superstring theory holds that the objects responsible for creation of the fundamental forces of nature — such as photons and gravitons — are not points but extremely small one-dimensional loops of strings of energy. Dr. Witten has been endeavoring to provide the conceptual framework that has been missing from the superstring theory since its formulation 15 years ago.

He also has provided fresh insights into other problems of theoretical physics, including the long-debated question of whether energy in Einstein's theory of general relativity is necessarily positive. Dr. Witten resolved this in the affirmative in what has been described as a classic study.

After earning a bachelor of arts degree in physics at Brandeis University in 1971, Dr. Witten received a Ph.D. in physics from Princeton in 1976. He was a postdoctoral fellow at Harvard University until being appointed to the Princeton faculty in 1980.

He was awarded the MacArthur Foundation Prize in 1982, and in 1985 the Einstein Medal of the Albert Einstein Society of Bern, Switzerland, the Dirac Medal of the International Center for Theoretical Physics in Trieste, Italy, and the award for Physical and Mathematical Sciences of the New York Academy of Sciences.

Mr. Elias spent more than 30 years as a correctional practitioner, most of them in New Jersey, where he was named assistant commissioner of corrections before retiring in 1983 to assume his present post at John Jay College.

Sewer Ban

Among other things, building permits require sewer connection permits, and because of the chronic overflowing manholes above Princeton sewer lines, the DEP notified the SOC more than a year ago that it would not grant "wet" connection permits until conditions were remedied. The DEP gave Princeton until July 1, 1988 to eliminate the overflow conditions.

The DEP stipulates that exemptions to a sewer ban may be granted in cases of financial hardship, or when one building is replacing another, or the facility is for the public good, or to eliminate unsanitary conditions. According to Gary Green, executive vice president of Collins Development Corp., the owner and developer of Palmer Square will cite financial hardship.

Mr. Green said Collins has spent $16 million in "hard costs" — apart from development costs such as land acquisition, legal and architectural fees and the like — in the improvements to the Nassau Inn, the new wing of the Inn and the parking garage. He estimates Hulfish North construction costs will amount to an additional $22 million, for a total of $38 million just in building.

He says that the elements that are already in place are part of the whole. Mr. Green says that the fact that Planning Board approval for the project stipulated completion of the garage before the Nassau Inn, the hotel before the mixed use Hulfish North, is further indication that the whole project is interrelated.

"It's a great big plan, and one part doesn't stand on its own," he points out. He says Collins did consider a temporary sewer holding tank arrangement, similar to the one that has been approved for Benedict Yedlin's Andrews-Foulet development on Cherry Hill Road. But he says that either the DEP or the SOC in informal discussions made it clear such an arrangement "was not a solution."

Mr. Green says it will take 18 months to complete construction of the 140 townhouse condominiums, 440-space underground garage, 72,800 square feet of office space, and 39,500 square feet of retail space that are planned for Hulfish North. If the SOC is able to hold to its proposed timetable for replacement of defective portions of the two major trunk lines, he thinks the rehabilitation will be completed six months before Hulfish North needs to connect.

According to Martin Doward, SOC manager, the application for an exemption must be filed by April 30, two weeks in advance of the SOC meeting at which it will he discussed. Collins has asked to be on the agenda of the next meeting, which is on Wednesday, May 14.

The two week advance filing will give Mr. Dorward and the SOC members time to review the many papers which must be filed to support the request.

BUSINESS

Earnings Increase 20% At New Jersey National

New Jersey National Corporatinn has achieved a 20 percent increase in earnings for the first quarter of 1986, with net income rising to $5.076 million from $4.243 million for the same period in 1985, according to John H. Walther, chairman of the board.

Earnings per share for the first quarter were 55 cents on a primary basis and 51 cents on a fully diluted basis, compared to 48 cents and 48 cents, respectively, in 1985. These figures reflect the three-for-two split of the Corporation's common stock on March 31.

Fully diluted earnings per share reflects, primarily, the additional shares issuable upon the assumed conversion of the 8¼ percent convertible subordinated debentures issued in December 1985.

Mr. Walther added that the growth in net income was largely the result of an increase in non-interest income and a continued demand for New Jersey National's commercial and consumer loan services. He also reported a 20 percent increase in total assets to $2.0 billion from $1.7 billion a year earlier. Total deposits and total loans grew to $1.8 billion and $1.4 billion, respectively.

SCHLOTT PROUDLY PRESENTS

A REAL ESTATE CAREER SEMINAR

Thursday, April 17 at the
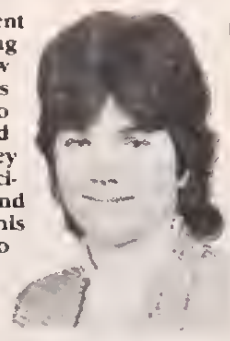
RAMADA INN, Princeton

"Almost two years ago, I went from selling cosmetics to selling real estate. I was amazed at how similar the two sales experiences are! Taking the extra time to understand people's wants and needs, then giving advice they can use to make educated decisions is what sales is all about, and real estate is no exception. This career is all I expected and so much more."

If you are thinking of real estate as a career, whether new or experienced in the field, take this opportunity to attend our career seminar 4/17/86 at 7:30 pm.



Cathie McCool

Our renowned trainer, Ellie Nice, office managers and experienced salespeople who made a career change, like Cathie McCool of our Princeton Junction office, will be available to answer your questions. Discount coupons for the Career Development School will be given to each participant. Don't miss out on this opportunity! Refreshments will be served.

DIRECTIONS: New Jersey Turnpike to exit 9, bear right to Rt. 18 West to Rt. 1 South. Go 20 minutes. Hotel is at #1053 Route 1, on the corner of Ridge Rd.

NOTICE

In compliance with a ruling of the State Supreme Court, all newspapers must ascertain that employment ads do not discriminate between sexes.

For example, titles such as "Salesman," "Nurse" and "Girl Friday" should be replaced respectively, by "Salesperson," "Nurse (M/F)" and "General Office Work M/F". TOWN TOPICS has a copy of the Division of Civil Rights booklet, "A Guide for Employers to the New Jersey Law Against Discrimination," and will provide assistance in the wording of all such ads upon request. Advertisers' cooperation is sought in meeting the requirements of the law.

LET'S TALK ABOUT

TREES NEED A SPRING CLEANUP, TOO!!!

with Sam DeTuro

Woodwinds Associates

Spring cleanup of the garden is never complete unless it includes your trees. Mending broken parts of shade trees, dormant spraying and feeding can be done weeks before garden soil is workable or a lawn is ready to be repaired. A look at your trees will show that major work needs to be done. Dangling branches left by winter winds should be pruned out. Dead and dying branches should be removed. This same pruning will improve a tree by better branch spacing, giving new character to a tree that has grown out of bounds

Perhaps one of the singularly important phases of spring tree care, is fertilization. This will help restore nourishment to trees and shrubs battered and tattered by wind, snow and ice. Importance must be placed on the root system which can be torn loose by winds and soon hungry and thirsty buds will soon be calling for food and water. Unless a trees root system is healthy and well nourished your trees cannot obtain optimum growth.

Call WOODWINDS (924-3500) for all your tree care needs.

IN HOPEWELL there is a large loft where fine reproductions of oil paintings are lifted off their paper and impregnated onto artist's canvas under an atmosphere of pressure. They are then stretched by hand over wooden stretcher bars to hang as is, or framed. The results are stunning pieces of art work as rich in texture and color as the oils from which the reproductions were made.

You are invited to come and see this extraordinary transformation in progress for yourself and if you've always wanted a Monet but couldn't afford one, you may come away with the perfect compromise.

Yes, we must because while the master architect put his very special stamp on the basic house, it took two very special people, new to our area, but totally involved in the Breuer philosophy, to take this MOMA house a step beyond! Given the totally secluded spot of almost four acres, they added on, they enlarged, they enlivened -- and to this discerning eye, they even improved! The outdoors come in! The artwork is nature itself, in every season, extremely brilliant while at the same time, very restful. The house must be seen. It is really splendid. Do call Peggy Hughes for the particulars!

The Princeton High School Buddy Program Pairs Teens with Senior Citizen Classmates

We're not sure if there've been any recent polls asking students if they're still unwilling to trust anyone over 35; whether the "generation gap" of the sixties has been bridged. But it's clear that no such gap exists, at least at Princeton High School, between teenagers and those over age 60. Not only is there trust between members of the the two groups — who work together in the school's Buddy Program — there's also a lot of caring.

Teachers, too, are not immune to the warm feelings inspired by this unusual program, which pairs a high school student in the school's Intergenerational Program with a senior citizen taking classes at the school.

At a recent Intergenerational Tea held in the Davis Conference Room of the school, students, seniors, and teachers talked of their experiences in the Buddy Program.

Senior Catherine Sanderson said simply, "This is the best program the high school has to offer, the most rewarding." She will probably attend Yale in September, and she wants to do something similar there. Whether that means tying into an existing program or starting one doesn't matter. "I can't," she says, "imagine my life without a program like this."

The Buddy Program, under the direction of Dr. Ron Horowitz, pairs a student with a senior interested in taking a course at the high school. The buddy shows the senior how to get to the classroom (anyone who has ever tried to get around on Back to School night can verify that this is no mean feat), and makes sure the senior is comfortable in the class and in the high school environment.

The older student is introduced to the teacher by the buddy, who returns at the end of class to accompany him or her back to the agreed-upon spot. They meet every day until the senior feels comfortable enough to get to class unaccompanied. Both keep in contact, especially if there is a question or problem.

With Princeton the kind of town that attracts some highly extraordinary people, it's not surprising that a number of seniors involved in the program have some rather unusual backgrounds.

Take Mr. and Mrs. Alexander. George Alexander was ordained in the Episcopal Church in 1968. But prior to that, the Harvard graduate worked for the United States government and later studied woodworking at the School for American Craftsmen at the Rochester Institute of Technology. While continuing woodworking and running a shop, he also taught at Princeton Day School, Valley Road School, and the Chapin School until his retirement in 1974.

Mrs. Alexander, after the couple's two sons began school full time, began teaching in the Hopewell Regional Schools. She, too, is retired.

Mr. Alexander called the Buddy Program "one of the greatest things going on," and said he became hooked on it at last year's tea.

He has studied medieval history and computers; Mrs. Alexander has been studying art with David Mackey.

Mr. Mackey noted that his class has an "interesting cross section of the Princeton student body, who occasionally express themselves in ways not everybody is accustomed to."

While admitting that he sometimes shudders at this, he said that Mrs. Alexander either pretends not to have heard "or she smiles."

English teacher Merle Rose spoke glowingly of her senior pupil, Marcia Conn. Mrs. Conn, who has been in Mrs. Rose's writing class for three years, spent more than 27 years in the Middle East with her husband, teaching English and comparative education at colleges in Turkey and Egypt. She also lived for two years in the thirties in China, where she taught in the Beijing American School and the University in Beijing.

Calling Mrs. Conn a "role model," Mrs. Rose said that she had been asked to go to China for three months to study adult eduction. "I thought of family responsibiliteis and other things I was involved in. But then I thought of Marcia, who did this in the thirties, and felt, 'how could I not go.'" She went.

"Mrs. Conn is tiny," said Mrs. Rose. "but she is one of the largest, most expansive people I've ever met."

The Buddy Program, which started with three seniors three years ago, now numbers nine older students who are currently studying such subjects as U.S. history, art, creative writing, Spanish, French, Italian and computers.

In addition to learning and friendship, the program has reaped some unexpected rewards. When Sarah Bond, a former student of architecture in Paris, was studying French, she invited her young classmates to her home to see slides taken in France and also to enjoy something that isn't usually available in a classrooom, even in Princeton — French cuisine.

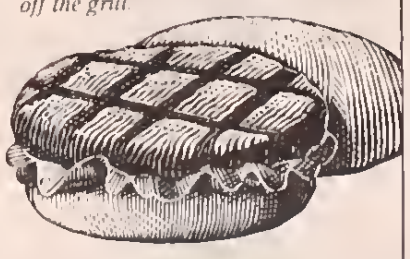
THE GRILL

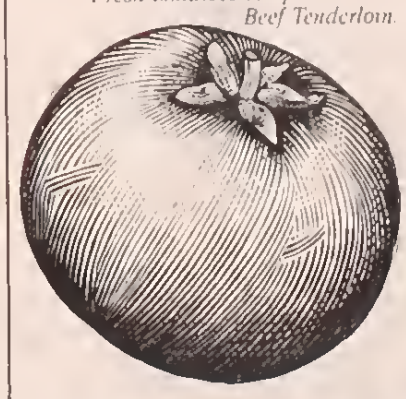
AN AMERICAN CELEBRATION, APRIL 14-MAY 26

America loves a cookout.

The Burger, as it should be, hot off the grill.



Fresh tomatoes complement our Beef Tenderloin.



America loves a cookout. There's something about the grill that transforms a meal into something special.

It's in that spirit that J.B. Winberie launches a special tribute. The Grill. An American Celebration.

From now until May 26, we're grilling up some especially delicious entrées. Like Beef Tenderloin. Chicken Breast with Pepper Jelly. Swordfish with Tarragon Butter. And Grilled Shrimp.

They may not be the sort of dishes you'll find on your average backyard grill, but they're as American as the Fourth of July. And all of them are under $10.00. Now that's worth celebrating! And what better place to celebrate than at a special place like J.B. Winberie?

New Musical to Open At George St. Playhouse

The George Street Playhouse, professional theater in New Brunswick, will end its 12th season with a new musical, The Rise of David Levinsky, which opens this Wednesday and runs until May 1.

The Rise of David Levinsky, based on a 1917 novel, tells the story of a young immigrant who arrives in New York with four cents in his pocket and ends up a garment industry tycoon. The play is filtered through the consciousness of the middle-aged Levinsky, who loves material success, but is aware that in gaining it he has lost his innocence. He is haunted by his former self, and the two share the stage together through most of the play.

The older Levinsky is played by Laurence Luckinbill, star of stage, screen and television, who was nominated for a Tony award for his performance in the Pulitzer Prize winning play The Shadow Box. On Broadway, Mr. Luckinbill starred in Dancing in the End Zone, Chapter Two, and A Man for All Seasons. He was a member of the original Lincoln Center Repertory Company and Off Broadway created the role of Hank in Boys in the Band.

Marilyn Cooper, who won a Tony Award and Drama Desk Award for her performance opposite Lauren Bacall in Woman of the Year, plays two roles in Levinsky. Miss Cooper appeared in West Side Story, Gypsy, with Ethel Merman, I Can Get It for You Wholesale with Barbra Streisand, and other musicals.

Avi Hoffman will re-create the role of the young David which he originated at the 92nd Street Y. Another original cast member, Eleanor Reissa, will play Levinksy's love, Dora. Sue Lawless, who directed that production, also directs this.

Tickets are $13-$22, with discounts available for groups of 20 or more. Quick tix are available for $10 on the day of performance from noon to one-half hour before curtain, except for Friday and Saturday night.

Performances are scheduled Tuesday through Sunday evening with matinees on Sundays and alternate Wednesdays and Saturdays. The George Street Playhouse is located at 9 Livingston Avenue, New Brunswick, and the phone number is (201) 246-7717.

'Star-Spangled Banter' Next Triangle Club Show

The Princeton University Triangle Club will take a look at distinctively American traditions in a distinctly untraditional way in its annual student-written musical comedy revue Star-Spongled Banter. The show will re-open the newly renovated McCarter Theatre on Thursday, May 1.

More than 60 Princeton undergraduates comprise the cast of Stor-Spongled Banter, which includes songs and sketches about game shows, superheroes, college football, and arms negotiations. The satirical revue will also feature the traditional all-male kickline, with a send-up of the Miss America pageant.

COURTSHIP IN MISSOURI: Allan Salkin as Matt Friedman woos Sally Talley, played by Marty Salkin, in "Talley's Folly," the Stage One production of Lanford Wilson's Pulitzer prize play about the courtship between these two in the Talley family boathouse in Lebanon, Mo. The play will open Thursday, May 8, at 8 at the Mill Hill Playhouse, Front and Montgomery Streets, Trenton, and run for three weekends.

Star-Spangled Banter marks the fourth Triangle production for director Miriam Fond, who recently staged the musical Jack and Jill at River West Theatre in Manhattan. Diana Baffa-Brill, also in her fourth year with Triangle, will choreograph.

Star-Spangled Banter will run Thursday, May 1, through Sunday, May 4, and again on Friday and Saturday, June 6 and 7. Tickets are on sale at McCarter Theatre box office and can be reserved by calling 452-5200.

Stage One Opens Season With "Talley's Folly"

Lanford Wilson's comedy, Talley's Fally, is the first season offering of Stage One Productions, Inc.

Nick Procaccino directs the Pulitzer Prize winning play which opens at Trenton's Mill Hill Playhouse, Front and Montgomery Streets, on Friday, May 9. The play continues for three weekends through May 25. Tickets are $5, $7, and $9, and may be reserved by calling Stage One at 683-0444.

Allan and Marty Salkin have been cast as Matt Friedman and Sally Talley, an unlikely couple whose mating dance is at the heart of the play. The time is 1944 and Matt is Jewish, Sally is Protestant. He's a Lithuanian immigrant, she's a down-home gal from Lebanon, Mo. But they are in love, and the complications that result from their varied backgrounds and points of view make this one of Wilson's most appealing and popular plays.

A Thursday evening preview will play on May 8, and tickets are $5 for this performance only. Evening performances are at 8 p.m.

Tickets are $7 on Thursdays and Sundays and $9 on Fridays and Saturdays. There are two Sunday matinee performances, May 11 and 25, and tickets for these performances are also $7. Senior citizens and students (ID required) may purchase tickets for $5 for any Thursday or Sunday performance.

The production will be co-directed and stage managed by Frank Arment. Gene Ericson and Bill Hoover will do the set and lighting design.

1984 NEW YORK FILM CRITICS PRIZE:
BEST FOREIGN FILM
1984 CANNES FILM FESTIVAL:
BEST DIRECTOR

A Sunday in the Country
A Film by BERTRAND TAVERNIER

A SUNDAY IN THE COUNTRY is the gentle meditation on the themes of art, life, love and family which won Bertrand Tavernier the Best Director award at last year's Cannes Festival, and his film the New York Film Critics Prize as the year's Best Foreign Film. On a lovely summer day in 1912, an aging painter (Louis Decreux) of the second stature, who is going to die soon and so for whom each day is now unique, entertains his children and grandchildren. Monsieur Ladmiral recalls a happy marriage, reflects on his role as parent and painter, and resolves to continue his quiet quest. Ladmiral is a Don Quixote in reverse, a man who has surrendered his dreams to the imperatives of practicality. In flashbacks that are like a family album, we see how he chose the safe path instead of taking risks that were taken by artists like Monet and Seurat, who followed their vision and gave new eyes to the world. With great dignity and ingratiating wit, Tavernier tells a story that might have moved both Auguste and Jean Renoir. With exquisite sensitivity and compassion, he has done what Ladmiral the painter did not do: he shows us a human life in faces, flowers and skies and in the rhythms of possibility and regret. The result is a masterpiece in miniature, eye-ravishing and heartbreaking.

The opening night is Thursday, May 8, at 7:30. Friday night, May 9, there will be a special benefit performance for the RP Foundation Fighting Blindness and Creative Theatre Unlimited. Daytime and early evening performances continue Saturday, May 10, through Tuesday, May 13, at prices ranging from $6 to $10 for children and $8 to $12 for adults.

Held in a single big blue tent, in which no member of the audience is more than 35 feet from the ring, the Big Apple Circus is described as "intimate and magical." It won an Obie Award for theatre excellence and has played in Lincoln Center in New York City.

Among the returning performers are the pachyderm Anna May and her trainer Ben Williams; clowns Mr. Stuhs, Grandma and Gordoon; and Katja Schuman, with her team of Arabian and saddlebred horses in a daring equestrian act. Also returning are the Flying Gaonas in the trapeze act for which they received the Gold Crown Award at the Monte Carlo International Circus Festival. Other high wire acts involve Jimmy Tinsman and his wife in hand-balancing and aerial acts and the Wozniak Troupe in high-flying tumbling and Russian Swing dare-devilry.

Making their debut with the Big Apple Circus are Dynamotion, two jugglers of extraordinary objects; the Trampoline Guys, direct from a tour with the Harlem Globetrotters; and Hungarian teeterboard award winners.

The Big Apple's Central Jersey stand is sponsored by Merrill Lynch and Carnegie Center Associates through grants to the RP Foundation and CTU. Performance times are Thursday, May 8, at 7:30; Friday, May 9, at 11 and at 7:30 (special benefit performance); Saturday, May 10, at 2 and 7:30; Sunday, May 11, at 1 and 5:30; and Monday and Tuesday, May 12 and 13, at 11 and 7:30.

Philadanco, a contemporary dance company based in Philadelphia, will make its area debut on Saturday at 8 p.m. in the Kirby Arts Center of the Lawrenceville School. The concert is sponsored as a benefit by the Family Service Association of Trenton/Hopewell Valley.

A limited number of reserved patron seats at $30 are being sold at Association headquarters, 941 Whitehorse-Mercerville Road, Trenton, phone 585-8400, and by members of the board. Patron tickets include a post-performance reception.

Mr. Sadin will conduct the orchestra in Igor Stravinsky's Symphonies of Wind Instruments, composed in 1920 as a memorial to Claude Debussy. Co-director with Mr. Pratt of the Chamber Ensemble at Princeton, Mr. Sadin was appointed to the music faculty in 1985.

Musicality and Flawless Technique Are Combined In Well-Paced Concert by Pianist Alfred Brendel

Concert artists often become best known for a particular aspect of their playing. Some are primarily technicians with enough musicality to withstand criticism; some play with feeling and have sufficient technical facility to get them through a few warhorses of the repertoire.

Pianist Alfred Brendel is one of those rare performers who has the best of both: superb musicality and nearly flawless technique. His performance Monday evening in Alexander Hall moved his audience profoundly and served to reaffirm his reputation as a pianist of consummate skill and artistry. This concert was the fourth in Princeton University Concerts' Virtuosi in Recital series.

A close, imaginative look at Mr. Brendel's program shows a carefully developed progression of works. One could speculate that his choices were designed specifically to draw his listeners gradually deeper into the complexities of the music.

Mr. Brendel began with two works by Haydn, Fantasie in C Major and Sonata in E Minor. Both works are light in nature (though the sonata is a little more serious in intent), but substantive enough to seize one's interest — perfect warm-ups for both pianist and audience.

Schumann's Symphonic Etudes (Opus 13) followed the Haydn. These pieces have an outward structure which is deceptively simple (theme and variations in binary form), but their content and development are truly symphonic in character — by turns broad, heroic, impetuous or fanciful. This is music which demands more of a pianist's hands than of his heart, though Mr. Brendel gave plenty of both in his performance.

The program concluded with a set of pieces by Liszt, the second in a series entitled Annees de Pelerinage. Written as musical reflections of works of art and literature, these pieces are of a quieter kind of virtuosity (excepting the last movement). They require much greater depth of playing from the pianist than do any of the previous works on the program.

'Absolutely Brilliant.' Mr. Brendel's performance of this splendidly paced program was absolutely brilliant. In each work Mr. Brendel's supreme artistry rang true with intelligent and heart-felt interpretations. His technical proficiency showed him to be capable nf every nuance and cognizant of the finest details.

In the pieces by Haydn, one immediately sensed Mr. Brendel's wonderful control of phrasing. The lyrical melodies of the sonata's second movement were given room to breathe and flourish, while its crystalline structure remained unmuddled The Schumann etudes flnwed from one to the next without hesitation. Mr. Brendel maintained an unrelenting rhythmic energy in these pieces, while the melodic lines were heard with perfect clarity from within the work's rich textures.

Mr. Brendel's playing became somewhat more introspective in the set of pieces by Liszt. His performance of this work drew uncommonly poetic sounds from his instrument, making it seem to sing with passion and elegance. From beginning to end he was in complete control of the piano, and used it in a powerfully expressive manner. The audience's wildly enthusiastic response to this performance was honored with two encores.

When superb musicality and technical endurance are coupled with sensitive prngramming, the results are bound to be stunning. Alfred Brendel's performance Monday was indeed stunning, coming as close to musical perfection as one can imagine.

"THE GARBAGE CAN BAND" by Betty Ruth Curtiss, is a witty assemblage of "found objects" that can be "played" by visitors to the exhibit at the Arts Council of Princeton through April 27.

Beauty in Found Objects: Turning Junk into Art

Betty Ruth Curtiss had a rare ability to see beauty in ordinary things that few other people could see. She also had the originality to turn them into objets d'art of wit and imagination — and the even rarer gift not to take these constructions seriously.

A representative collection of the late artist's work can now be enjoyed at the Arts Council of Princeton. An hour spent here will suggest countless ways of artistically recycling the most ordinary household objects.

ART

A lengthy windowsill in the unpretentious gallery is a clutter of brightly colored plastic containers that lately held Wisk, Comet, Mr. Clean and other cleaners. Who ever appreciated what colorful baubles these lowly containers were in and of themselves?

How the objects were arranged in lace was apparently not a concern of the artist. The same disregard for placement is apparent in "Lost Glove Collection," an untidy heap of worn and largely unpartnered hand coverings of every description and material. A gold ribbon rests (by chance? by design?) atop a red nylon ski gauntlet — the only strokes of color in the basically drab and unhappy lot.

Who would think of stacking up a pile of laundry lint? The accumulated debris ("Lint Accumulation") looks like a pile of large felt pancakes. Surprisingly, the soft, heathery coloration is quite pleasing. The same soft coloring can be seen in "Gum Accumulation;; — wads of well-chewed gum stuffed inside a peanut butter jar. The colors — pink, light green, pale orange — are your standard bubble gum palette.

The center of the room is dominated by a large standing piece. The base of "The Garbage Can Band" is made of weathered tomato stakes laid side by side and held together by bicycle inner tubes and wooden clothespins. The effect is that of a rustic xylophone.

Above this object, hanging from the ceiling, is an assemblage of found objects — a stove grate, a crushed rusty can, a soleplate from an iron and several unidentifiable objects. (The marriage between all these things is not meant to be permanent — it's more one of convenience. At various times other things such as skateboards, heating ducts, truck fenders and hub caps could just as easily serve. It's the gestalt that counts here.)

Visitors are invited to pick up pieces of wood that are provided for the purpose and bang away at the items. It's amazing what a variety of sounds — many of them quite pleasing — can be produced. Some clunk, some ping, some of the least likely — the most wretched pieces of refuse — produce grand, almost cathedral-like chimes.

Around the walls are several other types of things the artist had turned her hand to. There's a necklace made from toothbrushes and another one from a bunch of brightly colored plastic tags (those little things grocery produce sections provide to snap-close the baggies.)

Instant art via the miracle of the copying machine was another of Curtiss' interests. Xeroxed images of folded laundry — a multiple series of rumpled pink shirts — have all the characteristics of finger paintings. Everyday items — a

Leave winter behind and pull on the poplins!
You know it must be spring when poplins begin to appear. These classic slacks have become a real tradition for men who like their comfort served with style. Crafted in a just-right blend that scoffs at wrinkles and gives you wash and wear convenience, poplins are a basic that most men won't live without. Try them and you won't either.

slice of bread, a sneaker, a crocheted pot holder, et al, are laid on a copy machine. The images thus made are set on heavier paper, cut out, and voila! odd-shaped and amusing postcards and notepaper. Striped shirts thus used become lined stationery.

According to the artist's resume (which she said she considered giving to a New York taxi driver to turn into a novel) she had never liked housework and worked out a way to "tolerate the tedium" by translating everything into something else. As she put it, "Congealed grease in the fry pan becomes a moonscape ... it's always a surprise."

She admitted to a life-long fascination with junk and confessed to being an addictive personality. "Even if I have only one of something it is often the beginning of a collection."

As to the collection of cleaning bottles, she said, "I think it makes a strong statement about a housewife's lot."

Often, when found objects are reincarnated as "art" and find their way into galleries, the artistic "statement" becomes suffocatingly pompous. Not so, here.

Handmade Paper Landscapes. Marie Sturken begins her landscapes "from scratch" by first constructing each piece of paper she composes on. She finds, she says, that she is "attracted by the tactile, sensuous beauty of handmade paper as a base" for her images. The result is the series of largely impressionistic landscapes now at AT&T's Corporate Education Gallery.

Some scenes are more abstract than others. "Winter Reflections" is composed of streaks of color and small, confetti-like squares that suggest the reflections of Christmas lights outside a rainy window pane. Several abstracts are way bands of color layered like parfaits in pleasing arrangements of complementary tones. "Sky Edge," for example, combines layers of lavendar, white, salmon, pale blues, sienna, pale pink, brown and dark blue, while "Summer Clouds" has the effect of an Indian blanket with irregular bands of color overlaid at various levels with narrow strips of paper in contrasting colors.

Other works are more pictorial. "The Canyon" is a scene of red sandstone cliffs rising on either side of a green river that runs into the far distance. The coloration suggests a late afternoon sun, with the cliffs shadowed in tints of orange, purples, blues and yellows.

"Along the River" comes in two parts that can be viewed separately or, when hung side by side, as they are here, become continuations of the same scene — undulating layers of hills executed in a palette of soft blues, greens and siennas.

The roughness of the handmade paper, with its ragged edges and bits of debris clinging here and there, adds an effective textural interest and extra depth to the works.

"GRASSES I," a handmade paper landscape by Marie Sturken will be on exhibit at the AT&T Corporate Education Center through May 13.

New Exhibit at Squibb Focuses on Woven Rugs

"Woven Treasure," 44 rugs and related items created over the last 400 years in Egypt, Iran, Turkey, Caucasia, Turkestan, Tibet and China, will be shown at The Squibb Gallery, Lawrenceville, from April 20 through May 25.

The selection, drawn from private area collections, was made by George W. O'Bannon and Donald N. Wilber of the Princeton Rug Society. It includes examples of pile and flatweave work by townsfolk, villagers and tent dwellers in both geometric and fluid patterns.

Rugs of special note are a rare-patterned 16th-century Mamluk, an early 19th-century East Turkestan with a rare white ivory ground, and a unique cardweave curtain dated after 1870 and attributed to eastern Turkey.

In a preview for Hali magazine published in London, Montclair State College Professor Barry Jacobs says the exhibition "is an impressive display of the treasured rugs in active use in the homes of their owners in the Princeton area."

The Lawrenceville Biofeedback & Stress Management

"In Practice Since 1979"

The ancient art of hypnosis has evolved over the centuries into a modern therapeutic tool whose authentic value has been officially recognized by the A.M.A.

THE LAWRENCEVILLE BIOFEEDBACK & STRESS MANAGEMENT CENTER, located at 1 Little Circle in Lawrenceville, New Jersey, phone 896-7080 has expanded the boundaries of traditional hypnotherapy. They utilize the primary technique of biofeedback training to facilitate deep relaxation as preparation for actual hypnosis. Biofeedback allows the client to learn to control physiological processes related to his particular disorder, such as controlling and lowering muscular tension, blood pressure and conquering insomnia. A state-of-the-art recording studio allows the center to set up individualized programs for Subliminal learning, a basic technique used throughout the therapeutic process. E.E.G. Biofeedback is used by the staff to identify brain wave rhythms in order to focus in on Theta waves and, in so doing, make use of a new technique called "Twilight Learning." Theta waves occur when the patient is at that state midway between sleeping and waking, and hence at the point of greatest suggestibility. Subliminal Twilight learning rewrites the client's subconscious script, replacing negative, self-destructive thoughts with positive growth oriented patterns. THE LAWRENCEVILLE BIOFEEDBACK & STRESS MANAGEMENT CENTER has successfully treated a diversity of disorders. Areas of specialization include: the control of various anxiety disorders, phobias, negative self image, insecurity, drug and alcohol dependence, overeating, smoking, learning disorders, and mood control. The client also learns to master physical symptoms such as gastro-intestinal disorders, headaches, muscular tension, and all areas of chronic pain.

Many of the Center's treatment programs are covered by major medical insurance and all treatments are medically supervised and conducted by Certified Biofeedback Therapists.

We, the editors of this 1986 BUSINESS PROFILES REVIEW, recommend this thoroughly professional establishment.

THE GABRIELSEN GROUP wants to assure you alcohol and chemical dependency are treatable diseases, but many who even vaguely suspect that they have a problem and may need help are frozen by the social stigma and years of negative conditioning. With state certified counselors for alcoholism AND substance abuse — THE GABRIELSEN GROUP has served this area for several years. Results have proven that this kind of intervention program is successful in getting people into treatment. The purpose of THE GABRIELSEN GROUP is to provide the most comprehensive professional treatment to all people whose lives have been affected in any way by an alcohol or drug problem. IT'S NEW TO US

Classic, Traditional Look Featured at The Talbots

In 1947, Rudolf and Nancy Talbot started a mail order operation in the attic of their Hingham, Massachusetts home. Little did they know that 39 years later, over 80 stores, from Princeton to California, would be the focus of a highly successful retail operation.

The women's clothing store opened its signature red door at 42 Nassau Street four years ago. All connected with The Talbots were delighted by the excellent reception, and manager Tina McDade and assistant managers Susie McCabe, Brenda Powers and Evie Mohr believe that both the fine quality of the merchandise and the emphasis on service are important factors in the store's success.

"Service is definitely something The Talbots prides itself on," says Ms. McDade. "Our philosophy is that the customer is our first priority, and her satisfaction is the reason why we're all here."

Adds Susie McCabe, "We offer advice to try to help our customers if they wish. We'll help with coordinating outfits. We show how you can change the look of an outfit with different accessories. How you can get a lot of use out of a few things. For example, a sweater vest with slacks is one look, but with a skirt, and if you belt it, it's a different and another great look. A belt can make a big difference on a basic dress, too."

Clothes That Last. The Talbots is noted for its good-looking, high quality clothing, which when added to a woman's wardrobe, will live from season to season. "Our clothes are a mix," explains Ms. McDade, "but we emphasize the classical and traditional. We have some updated things, but we're not trendy."

In an effort to help customers in all areas of fashion, The Talbots has been holding a series of fashion shows and wardrobe seminars. "We want to help educate women about ways to update their wardrobe," continues Ms. McDade. "For example, a basic navy suit can be more than just a navy suit. Accessories are so important, and we can show how to tie scarves. These seminars have been very popular, and we tend to have them at the beginning of the season. They have been held at various women's groups and organizations. The customers like to listen to what's new in fashion and are open to the ideas."

The Talbots' customers cover a wide age range and are characterized by a variety of tastes and interests, report Ms. McDade and Ms. McCabe. "We do have a wonderful customer base," says Ms. McDade, "and many come in very regularly. I enjoy working with the people, and you really get to know the customers. One lady comes in every Thursday. We can count on it!"

Flexible Career Dressing. Flexibility and versatility are also trademarks of The Talbots, and career women are taking advantage of these features now, she observes. "Career women are now adding personality to their wardrobes, not just dressing in navy pinstripes or gray. They mix and match, wear scarves and have more flair. There is definitely more flexibility. People are dressing the way they want. They don't have to dress to impress."

Adds Ms. McCabe, "People are generally more aware of how they look now. They can achieve a certain look with layers perhaps or with accessories and not have to spend a lot of money doing it."

All customers, whatever their fashion tastes, will find a lovely selection of spring clothes, highlighted by an array of cotton sweaters, ("very, very popular" in both patterned and solid colors), shirts and blouses in stripes, plaids and prints, dresses, summer suits, pants and blazers. Swim suits, shorts and polo shirts are in stock, as are shoes, handbags, hosiery, socks and such essential accessories as jewelry, belts and scarves.

"We can't keep enough scarves in right now," says Ms. McCabe. "They're very big right now." Belts are also very popular, and she notes that "We have all kinds, types, styles and colors, including novelty belts."

Pastels have also been very popular for spring, report the managers, and are available in a variety of outfits and fabrics, including linen, cotton and floral prints. The brights — royal and reds — and also, the neutrals, have been selling well.

Natural fibers are very much in favor, with linen and cotton especially desirable, and have been for the past two years. Although, laughs Ms. McDade, "People are still divided into two groups: those who will iron and those who won't!"

From Head to Toe. The Talbots dedication to the woman's overall fashion statement includes a selection of colorful shoe styles for spring, with espadrilles, pumps, sandals, flats and sneakers in stock. Such manufacturers as Nickels, Caressa, Jaques Cohen, Andre Assous, Unisa and The Talbots own private label are in full supply.

"Socks are a definite fashion accessory for 1986," states Susie McCabe, "and we have a real variety — athletic, knee-socks and anklets. The designs and patterns are great. They're a lot of fun for weekend wear." She adds that textured hosiery continues to be popular.

As always, jewelry is a big seller, and The Talbots has a wide selection of earrings, necklaces, pins and bracelets with a price range of $8 to $40. Necklaces and earrings are in great demand and come in a variety of styles and colors.

There are lots of handbags in stock, both colorful, casual bags in the $20 and up category and fine Coach leather bags and briefcases.

"We are really one-stop shopping," says Tina McDade. "You can come here for an entire outfit and then top it off with just the accessories you need."

The Talbots carries both petite (2 to 14) and regular (4 to 18) sizes, and the customer will find a variety of manufacturers, including The Talbots' own private label.

Prices range from $46 and up for skirts, $48 and up for pants, $80 and up for blazers, $70 and up for dresses and $28 and up for the very popular sweaters ($20 and up for sweater vests). Scarves and belts start at $15.

Seasonal Shopping. There is always an anticipation and excitement about a new season, especially spring, and Ms. McDade, who has been manager of The Talbots for a year, sees this reflected in the shoppers. "The store is busy as the seasons change," she says, "and spring has been particularly busy. When the weather changes, and is good, then people start coming in. They really shopped very early this season. You see different kinds of customers at different times, too. Soon, for Mother's Day, we'll get whole families coming in, shopping for Mom!

"There's always a lot of action and excitement in a retail store," she adds. "Things are always happening."

Fences for All Seasons From Suburban Fence

"MORE THAN JUST A PRETTY FENCE" is available at Suburban Fence Company in Lawrence. Owner Jerry Solomon and his son David, second and third generation tencecrafters, manufacture and distribute residential, commercial and industrial fencing.

"The biggest reason for getting a fence from Suburban Fence is that we're the oldest and largest continuously operated business in the area," says owner Jerry Solomon. "The advantage of that is that it's the second and third generation serving you. And not only is our company a good place to get a fence, the customers know that if there's a problem, we're still here. We'll take care of our customers."

Mr. Solomon's company has been taking care of customers for 30 years. Suburban Fence started out in Trenton in 1956 and now has four locations — two retail operations and two storage facilities. Last August Mr. Solomon relocated one of the stores to 1781 Princeton Pike in Lawrence, and business has been excellent in this new location, he reports.

"We do a lot of business from Pennsylvania," he notes, "and this location is convenient. We really get people from all over. A lot of customers here recommend us to people they know in other areas."

Mr. Solomon's interest in fencing began when he was a boy, and he watched his father supply dairy farmers with locust posts. Sold by the wagon load, locust wood was especially desirable since it is the longest lasting of American woods.

Fences Abroad. After three decades in the business, Mr. Solomon is proud that his fences extend over such a wide expanse of territory, both in this country and abroad. "Our fencing was around the New Jersey Pavilion of the 1964 World's Fair," he remarks, adding, "We ship things around the world. We have fencing in Jamaica and the islands. Of course, most of our fencing is in the surrounding area, but we get calls from all over. I like to think we have a good reputation. Most people say they buy our fences because of what they see and the value. People like variety and diversification, and we have that."

He also explains that Suburban Fence manufactures much of its own fencing. "We make all our own gates and most of our wooden fences."

Wood, of course is just one type of fence, and Suburban Fence stocks a variety of these but also has every other conceivable type of fence, including galvanized steel, vinyl-covered steel, aluminum and wrought iron.

"I don't know of any kind of fence that we don't sell," smiles Mr. Solomon. We even have every color you can think of — three shades of green alone."

Different types of fences are popular in different areas, he reports. Princeton residents seem to like wooden ones, preferring a natural look. Other areas run more to chain link metal fences.

Customers vary also, he observes. "Horses and dogs are some of my best customers," he says with a laugh. "You need big fences for horses. Board fences are most popular now, but the old fashioned post and rail is coming back. It requires the least maintenance and is most durable."

As well as providing fencing for kennels, Suburban Fence also sells portable dog houses, both in kits and fully assembled. You can get a large kit for $60 and a ready-made dog house for $79.

Fences for Every Need. Fences of all types and for a variety of uses, including residential, industrial and commercial, are available from the company, and Mr. Solomon also points out that "we supply fencing for every kind of government agency — federal, state, local — and all over, not just in the immediate area. We've done Fairmont Park in Philadelphia and a number of prisons, too. We install the fencing as well as sell it. We have 14 trucks on the road and 35 people on staff during the peak season, from now through the summer."

Prices vary for fencing. For example, wooden fences (including cypress, redwood, locust, spruce, pine and cedar) can start at $7.50 a section and go up to $100 per section. Chain link metal fences (galvanized steel, vinyl-covered steel and aluminum) start at 40 cents a foot, while wrought iron fences are among the most expensive.

Lawn mowers, generators and tools associated with fencing, such as power tools to dig post holes ("we're the distributor for Haynes Earth drills") and shovels are also available at Suburban Fence. Honda and Snapper lawn mowers, top-of-the-line machines, start at $300 and go up to $700. Generators go from $200 to $1500. Such accessories as weathervanes, lanterns, door chimes and hinges are also carried.

Customers will always be able to find a special at Suburban Fence, too, according to Mr. Solomon. "There are always discontinued styles, odds and ends, on sale. Lots of gates, for example, when heights and colors have been discontinued. Many times people can buy at a fraction of the usual cost. There is a solid redwood and fiberglass privacy fence right now which was made to sell for $73 a section, and we're selling it for $19 a section."

Service and Satisfaction. If you think, in Robert Frost's words, that "Good fences make good neighbors," then Suburban Fence is the place to go. Not only will you find an extensive selection of fences but a company that values service and customer satisfaction.

"We service what we sell," says Mr. Solomon adding, "I like to see progress, but the most enjoyable thing in all the years I've been in the business is to have a person come back again or a relative or friend of someone who had gotten a fence from us. They might say 'My parents bought a fence from you' or 'I'm ready for another.' One couple moved four times and every time they moved, they bought a fence from me.

"This gives me the most satisfaction," he continues, "a sense of accomplishment. It is more important than the growth of the company — from operating one truck in the early days to 20 vehicles now."

Hours for Suburban Fence are 8:30 to 4:30 Monday through Friday and 8:30 to 2 on Saturday.

Three Tiger Crews Set to Compete on Carnegie Saturday; Several Princeton Teams Experiencing Difficult Spring

Princeton's biggest home weekend of rowing will find all three Tiger crew teams nursing bruises after a less than scintillating weekend last time out The Nassau women begin the activities on Saturday with a 9 a.m. outing against Yale. They will be seeking to bounce back from defeat at the hands of Radcliffe in Ithaca.

At 11 a.m., Coach Larry Gluckman's heavyweight boats face the perennial tough challenge against Harvard, with the varsities rowing for the Compton Cup. The Tiger varsity lost for a second straight week to Penn last Saturday at New York, leaving the Tigers three lengths in their wake. Harvard, of course, has been perhaps the hardest of Tiger foes in rowing for many years. Last year it defeated Princeton on three separate occasions MIT also will be entered.

SPORTS

At 1 p.m., Coach Gary Kilpatrick's lightweights row for the Wood-Hammond Cup against the Penn 150's They, too, are seeking to bounce back from a rather unexpected setback at the hands of Rutgers last Saturday.

The only other home attraction on the weekend card finds Coach Tom O'Connell's struggling baseball team playing host to strong Cornell in a noon doubleheader on Clarke Field. At 3-5 in EIBL play, there appears little hope for a repeat title for the Orange and Black nine.

Baseball Bombs Out. Princeton's baseball team has been increasingly an enigma to its followers this spring Coming off a superb 29-12 season a year ago which included an EIBL title, the Tigers figured to be hard to dislodge, given their excellent hitting prowess. That prowess has taken leave and Princeton has been dropping low-scoring one-run games with regularity

They did show signs of a resurgence last Saturday at Penn when Mike Reed's grand slam paced an 11-2 victory for John Smyth in the opener and a barrage of hits enabled John Buchanan to post an 8-2 triumph in the nightcap.

But, faced with the moment of truth Sunday at Annapolis, the Bengals fell twice to league-leading Navy. Scott LaForest was the first game loser, 2-0, the second straight hard-luck loss for the Tiger senior. Then, after hulding a 3-0 nightcap lead, Princeton saw it squandered by Art Peponis as the Tiger bats again fell silent in the clutch to lose, 4-3.

The parallel with last winter's hocky team is jarring. Each of these teams returned most of the players from a successful season and each had a right to aspire to better things. But, rather than building on success, both teams seem to have rested on that success. There remains nothing but regret.

Softball Still Strong. The Tiger softhall team, despite a rebuilt cast, remains a strong bet to capture yet another Ivy League title which would be the fourth straight for Coach Cindy Cohen. Riding the strong pitching of sophomore Angela Tucci and freshman Robbie Fazen, the Tigers raised their record to 19-9 overall and to 4-0 in Ivy play by sweeping twin bills from Providence College, 6-0 and 4-3, and from Ivy rival Harvard, 4-1 and 8-3, on Broadmead Field last weekend.

Tucci has notched ten victories so far on the mound. After travelling to Lehigh for a Thursday doubleheader, the Tiger batswomen go on a trip to Brown and Yale for successive twin bills this weekend.

Having trailed Penn badly in their Childs Cup race at New York, the Tiger heavyweight oarsmen came back into action Sunday on the Raritan River in New Brunswick to capture the Logg Cup from Rutgers. The Tiger varsity edged the Scarlet by about ¾ length with both JV and freshman boats also victorious.

After piling up a succession of easy wins against Rutgers and Cornell on Lake Carnegie last Saturday, the Tiger 150 varsity was caught napping at the wire. Head to head with Rutgers through the body of the race, Princeton moved out to a narrow but seemingly safe lead in the final 100 meters only to see the Scarlet put on a final surge to nip Princeton at the wire by eleven one hundredths of a second. It now remains for the Reagal 150's to rebound and to capture another EARC Spring title in order to gain another trip to Henley.

No Hope in Lacrosse. Out of Ivy contention for all practical purposes since the late 1960's, the men's lacrosse team continues on its treadmill path to oblivion. Heartened by the 9-8 victory over Yale two weeks ago, Coach Jerry Schmidt's stickmen took their hopes to Providence last Saturday and saw Brown dash them unceremoniously.

The Tigers did manage to stay close at 4-3 late into the second period but the Bruins opened up a barrage of seven consecutive tallies which ended all doubts. This setback followed hard on the heels of a midweek loss to Penn, 8-2. This one also saw the Tigers close at the half, lagging by but 3-1, before the Quakers turned on the steam and made it an easy final.

There is little solace on the horizon for Princeton's struggling lacrosse team as it must travel this week to Cambridge where the league-leading Crimson awaits it. It should be noted that Princeton's women's lacrosse team broke out of its winless rut last weekend with a 10-9, come-from-behind victory over Yale, snapping a seven-game losing streak. This sport is experiencing lean times at Princeton these days.

Honing up for a crack at an outdoor Heptagonal title to add to the one achieved indoors last month, Coach Larry Ellis's men's track team gained a hard-fought 88-75 dual meet victory at Yale last weekend. Sweeps of both the pole vault, won by Ross Sullivan at 16 feet, and the shot, taken by Geoff Seay, paced the victory. The Tigers now engage in a series of Relays before the Heps May 10-11 at Annapolis.

Here's a fact that shows how Little League baseball has grown .. Little League started in 1939 with just 3 teams in one city -- Williamsport, Pa. ... Today, there are over 9,000 leagues in over 30 different countries around the world.

Here's a surprising fact about one of the best golfers on the pro golf tour -- Calvin Peete ... Peete NEVER played golf in his life until he was 23 years old -- yet despite that late start, he's become one of the top golfers in the world

I bet you didn't know ... that Mortgage insurance is the least expensive of all life insurance. Is your mortgage insured? Who would continue the payments if you died?

It's amazing how many baseball managers were not-so-great players themselves ... Here are just a few examples: ... Tiger manager Sparky Anderson had a lifetime batting average of only .218 ... Dodger manager Tom Lasorda pitched in the majors for 3 years and never won a game . Angel manager Gene Mauch had a lifetime batting average of only .239 ... And White Sox manager Tony LaRussa hit only .199 in his big league career.

PARDON MY STICK: Princeton High attackman Jim Jones tries to take ball from Clifton player as teammate Greg Savidge (12) comes up to help out. PHS managed to tie score at 4 but ultimately lost an 8-6 decision.

PHS Loses Cool, Game To Clifton in Lacrosse

Bob Campbell, the first-year coach of the Princeton High boys lacrosse team, discovered Saturday that there is one more aspect of the game his players must learn: to walk away from opposing taunts.

Perhaps it was the frustration of being about to lose their fourth in a row that triggered the explosion, but with less than a minute to play and visiting Clifton leading, 8-4, some words were exchanged between a group of PHS and Clifton players on the field. The Little Tigers involved took exception to the remarks and a fight that emptied both benches broke out.

Chandler Kinchla and Matt Byrne of PHS and two Clifton players were thrown out of the game.

Campbell gathered his players together before play resumed and told them, "I'm ashamed for everyone of you. You have no concept of what lacrosse is about. If you want to fight, be a boxer."

His assistant, Jim Harris, was enraged that PHS had resorted to fighting. "This is not the Princeton way," he shouted. "Don't look at me, coach," said the 205-pound Kinchla. "I'm looking at everybody; this was a team effort," replied Harris.

One PHS player stormed off the field, muttering, "Princeton is supposed to be one of the smartest schools in the state. This was stupid. We're a bunch of meatheads."

Ironically, with 33 seconds left and both teams playing with two men down, Paul Fisher scored his third goal of the game and Jim Jones rifled in a shot as the final whistle was sounding to make it an 8-6 final.

Fisher and Jim "Bogie" Laverty had scored goals in the first half for PHS as the 2-1 Mustangs led 3-2 at halftime. The third period belonged to PHS.

Moments after the second-half faceoff, Fisher scored and Laverty later followed with his second goal to tie it at 4. With 35 seconds left in the period, George Limite beat PHS goalie Dan Brandt to regain the lead for the Mustangs.

The top player for Clifton, ranked 15th in the state, Robin Zurawa then broke the hearts of the Little Tigers when he scored his second and third goals within a 30-second span to put his team ahead, 7-4. Teammate Eric Freschi made it 8-4 with 65 second left.

Forgot Team Concept. After the game, Campbell commented, "They worked on a team game and it worked; all of a sudden they forgot it and it didn't work. It seems my gentlemen — I shouldn't call them gentlemen — feel if they can't beat you on the playing field they should intimidate you. There was some taunting out there but they have to learn to walk away from it. Noise never hurt anybody. When I was playing I used to like to throw it back in their face with ability."

Forgotten in the hectic finish were some outstanding saves and a superb performance by Brandt in front of the net.

Earlier in the week, PHS lost a 13-2 decision to Hunterdon Central, which, Campbell reported, had been ranked the top team in the state the past week. "They ran a nice offense but they are not better than Westfield," Campbell maintained. Westfield topped PHS, 14-5, in its second outing.

John Geller and Charlie Reeves scored for PHS in the loss to Hunterdon.

No Help from Schedule.. The only public high school in the county to field a boys lacrosse team, PHS continues to find no relief from a rugged schedule. This week, two more top teams will test the Little Tigers again when they face Lawrenceville School this Wednesday and Montclair on Saturday. Both contests are away.

In its first seven games, PHS will have had to play the top six teams in the state, lamented Campbell.

Columbia Rallies for Win. Monday, Columbia rallied to defeat visiting PHS, 13-4.

PHS had led early by scores of 3-1 and 4-2 but the home team managed to gain a 5-4 lead at halftime. "We had one bad quarter — the third," observed Campbell. Columbia pulled away as it outscored PHS, 9-0, in the second half.

———

"We came out and our game plan was intact," said Campbell. "We moved some people around (Jones from attack to middy, for one), we were agressive on ground balls ... then we gave up some goals ... but still nothing devastating ..."

Then came the third period and PHS lost its mental edge.

After Jones had scored on a sweep off the opening faceoff to give PHS a quick lead, Damon Webber added the second and Charlie Reeves had a pair to stake PHS to its lead.

However, in battling the top teams in the state, the PHS players, Campbell reported, catch themselves when they have the lead and say, "Hey, we're not supposed to be in games like this."

"It's amazing, but true. Our talent doesn't lose those games; our minds do."

THE BALL PASSED BUT NOT ROBINSON: Princeton High second baseman Jeff Robinson (43) tries to score on a passed ball but Hopewell Valley pitcher Brian Boucher is waiting to make the tag in second-inning action. Looking on in dark jacket to left of the home plate umpire is HV coach Stan Davis. Hopewell went on to win its third game in three starts, 3-1.

PDS Boys Gain 1st Win, Nipping ANC in Lacrosse

It wasn't any big deal, beating a rather weak Academy of New Church team, 4-3, but coach Bob Krueger and his players were plenty happy last Friday.

The PDS boys' lacrosse team has struggled so far this season, losing its first two, so when the first victory came along, it was more than welcome, regardless of the opposition.

And the struggles are not over for this Panther squad, which must play its first league game Wednesday against an improved Pingry team at home, and then face Hanover Park away on Saturday. Two more road games against Johnson Regional and Princeton High come after that.

The 4-3 final is not indicative of the way Princeton Day controlled the ball against ANC, but testifies instead to the fine play of the losers' goalie. He made several fine saves on 21 on-target shots by the Panthers.

Elias Abud scored early, assisted by Chris Alexander, and Scott West late in the first period, assisted by John DeRochi, to put the Panthers in the lead. Cliff Hilpert, off a pass by Abud, tallied in the second period for a 3-0 lead at the half.

Late in the third, PDS suffered what Krueger labeled "a two-minute breakdown" that allowed the home team to pull within 3-2. A bad clearing pass set up one goal.

But Cary Paik got an insurance goal at the beginning of the fourth period, which rendered ANC's third goal with time running out meaningless. Abud picked up his second assist.

PHS Nine Lose First; Lack of Hitting Blamed

In winning its first two games, the Princeton High baseball team was off to its best start in the four years Ed Beacham has been coach. But the bubble burst last week when the Little Tigers were defeated, 3-1, by visiting Hopewell Valley.

"Some of the things I felt at the begining are starting to hold true," said Beacham. "We just didn't hit the ball." That and a couple of key errors — three in all — spoiled the Little Tigers' bid to remain undefeated in league play.

PHS will face two more league foes next week. Thursday afternoon it will face unbeaten West Windsor, which is a near unanimous pick to win the Valley Conference title. Off to a 5-0 start, the Pirates were 17-6 last year and have most of their starters back, including five .300 hitters.

Next, in back-to-back games, the Little Tigers will host Lawrence on Monday and Hightstown on Tuesday, both starting at 3:45 at the Valley Road School diamond. Earlier in the week, PHS was scheduled to oppose Montgomery. The spate of games will challenge for the first time the untested depth of PHS mound staff.

Battle of Unbeatens. Both Hopewell and PHS entered last week's contest with 2-0 records. "When was the last time Princeton and Hopewell were unbeaten?" asked Beacham with a smile. Neither school has been successful on the diamond in recent years.

PHS pushed its only run across in the first when Billy Scott's hit sent Tim Rumer home but even then, observed Beacham, the ball never left the infield.

In the second innning, Jeff Robinson tried to race home from third on a passed ball and was thrown out at the plate, ending the inning, and in the next, junior catcher Paul Crystal led off with a drive to right center. He stumbled rounding second and had to settle for a double but his teammates left him stranded. There were to be no more scoring opportunities for the Little Tigers.

Hopewell got one run back in the fourth when the home umpire ruled PHS pitcher, Bill Mathes, had interfered with HV third baseman, Nick Serhan, on a play at the plate. The Bulldogs added the go-ahead run in the next inning after a baserunner, caught in a rundown between third and home, scored.

"We had that kid out twice," said Beacham. First, a throw by Crystal had hit the runner on the helmet as he headed back to third and when Doug Davis retrieved the ball and fired a return throw to the plate, Crystal dropped the ball while attempting a sweep tag.

Hopewell then added an insurance run in the final inning.

Both Mathes and Brian Boucher for Hopewell tossed six-hitters. "I have no complaints against Mathes," said Beacham. "He pitched well, he just didn't get a break.

"But, basically, we have the same kind of problem except when (Tim) Rumer is on the mound. We know our other pitchers are going to give up a couple of runs; we've got to go out and get three or four to win."

In addition to Crystal and Scott, Rumer, Robinson, Dave Sisson and Billy Byrne had hits for PHS. First baseman Ed Gola had two of Hopewell's six hits.

Rumer 2-Hitter Spoiled By Little Tiger Errors

Tim Rumer, Princeton High's top pitcher, must be wondering what he did to anger the baseball gods.

Rumer was on the mound Monday against McCorristin and he responded with his best performance of the season. He limited the Iron Mikes to two hits while at the plate he had two of Princeton's five hits, including a double for the game's only extra base hit.

STRENGTH IN THE FIELD: The strong right arm of junior pitcher Kerri Sullivan has helped turn the fortunes of the Princeton Day softball team around.

AND AT THE PLATE: Catcher Catherine Barone is superb at the plate as well as behind it, with six hits and nine runs scored in two games.

The result: a 3-0 victory for McCorristin. The Iron Mikes scored a pair of unearned runs in the first and added one more unearned run in the sixth. Three errors in the game cost the Little Tigers as they slipped to 2-2.

Also connecting for hits for PHS were Doug Davis, Billy Mathes and Bruno DiDonato. Ben Bell got the win for McCorristin.

Softball Team Scores. After failing to get a hit in its first two games, the PHS girls softball team broke through for five Monday against McCorristin but still fell to their third defeat, 23-11, in a loosely-played game.

Princeton pushed seven runs across in the fifth inning but the visiting Iron Mikes had scored 15 in the same inning. Once again, PHS was guilty of some sloppy play in the field, committing nine errors.

Robin Korchick and Lori Crocker each drove in four runs for the 4-2 victors, as Andrea White was charged with the loss.

Earlier in the week, Hopewell Valley had blanked PHS, 16-0, on a no-hitter by Annette Bacon. The game was called after five-innings when the 15-run rule was invoked.

Leslie Hoch had two of Hopewell's 13 hits and batted in three runs. Chris Lien was the losing pitcher.

———

PHS Girls Lose To Summit. Visiting Summit High got a measure of revenge Monday for being knocked out of the state competition last year by Princeton High, when it erupted for seven second-half goals to defeat the PHS girls lacrosse team, 10-5. The loss was the first for the Little Tigers after two opening ties.

Liz Reinhardt of Summit matched the PHS output, as she scored five goals, three in the second half when the visitors pulled away from a 3-3 halftime deadlock.

PHS spread its scoring, getting single goals from Aileen Causing, Sara Pickens, Booie Lockwood, Kathy Herring and Mariana Mazzucato.

For Summit, it was its fourth victory without a loss.

New Year, Fresh Start For PDS Girls Softball

A new year and at least one new face, has made all the difference so far for the Princeton Day softball team, which won its first two games last week.

No better than 3-8 last spring, the Panthers bombed Rutgers Prep, 28-13 last Wednesday, and knocked off Blair, 16-15 Friday. How good is this team? We'll know more this week after games scheduled against Montclair, Princeton High and Hun.

The new face on the team belongs to Kerri Sullivan, new to the junior class this year. Sullivan has given the Blue and White the main asset it lacked in 1985: good pitching. Although erratic at times, she has won both games, getting the outs when needed most.

Meanwhile, the Panthers have been awesome at the plate, led by the powerful hitting of senior catcher Catherine Barone. She has six hits in seven at bats in the first two games, nine runs scored and 15 steals. Dafna Tapiero, Shana Fineburg and Sullivan have also hit well. Tapiero is the team leader in runs batted in with nine.

Against Rutgers Prep, the Panthers hardly had to lift the bat off their shoulders. The RP pitcher walked batters around the bases until even the most ardent PDS fan was bored.

Blair provided more competition, rallying from a 12-7 deficit in the fifth inning to take a 14-12 lead. Several PDS errors in the field and some bases on balls issued by Sullivan contributed to the rally.

But in the final two innings, the defense and Sullivan both regained their form, and Blair was limited to just one run. PDS meanwhile tallied three, including the winning one by Barone, who walked and circled the bases on a steal and an overthrow of second.

Head coach Rey Gonzales, assisted by Debbie Mano, is optimistic the Panthers can keep this good thing going.

Two Wins Open Season For PDS Girls Lacrosse

Coach Kim Bedesem feels it can't last, but the winning streak of the PDS girls' lacrosse team continues into the beginning of a new season.

The Panthers traveled to New England last weekend and beat Greenwich Academy on Friday and Taft, Saturday, to jump off to a 2-0 start. Added to a perfect 15-0 season last spring, and 9 consecutive wins in 1984, PDS is now riding a 26-game winning streak. Only a loss to Princeton High kept them from a perfect season two years ago.

Several good players were lost to graduation, especially a couple of top scorers in Karen Callaway and Birgit Enstrom, so Bedesem is concerned about who will emerge to take their places. But in the first two games at least, PDS scored enough to win.

Better conditioning, Bedesem thought, helped PDS pull out a close 6-5 triumph against Greenwich. It was a close game all the way, with PDS rallying to win from a 5-4 deficit.

"We tightened up our defense in the last 15 minutes," Bedesem commented, "and beat them to the ground balls. But our passing was absolutely horrendous; we lost possession far too many times."

Scoring for PDS were Becca Royal, who got one in each half, Tania Schoennagel, Scottie King, Becca Sugerman and Maya Bermingham. Sugerman and Bermingham, whose goals brought PDS back from its 5-4 deficit, are mainly defensive players.

The following afternoon PDS overcame snow, rain, finally sun and a tough Taft team for a 10-8 triumph. Behind 1-0 at the start, the Blue and White tallied the next three and then kept ahead for the remainder of the contest, fighting off exhaustion at the end.

Scorers in this game included Schoennagel, who had five, King with three, and Royal and Laura Heins with one apiece. Bedesem was pleased with the play of Jen Bonini in goal.

Next up after a contest against Stuart, set for this past Tuesday afternoon, are games against George School Wednesday and Kent Place Friday, both away. PDS looks to continue the streak against all three.

"These kids are used to winning," Bedesem concluded. They feel they can win no matter what."

Only the team's sense of direction seems missing. After the Taft game, the two PDS vans carrying the team got on Interstate Route 84 and headed north toward Hartford. No one realized the error until they passed a sign saying "Boston 90 Miles."

Hun Reverts to Old Ways After Win Over Hamilton

"It was a complete turnaround. A disaster. We reverted to our old ways," observed Hun baseball coach Bill McQuade of Friday's 13-4 loss to Peddie.

"I thought we would be up against them after the Hamilton and Pingry games — both games we played exceptionally well — but we literally fell apart. We didn't come to play."

The first six runs against losing pitcher Andy Monfried were unearned, five coming in the first frame. "We made a lot of defensive mistakes," said McQuade.

The lone bright spot for Hun was Rick Brenner's two-run double in the sixth when Hun plated three runs.

First Ever Over Hamilton. Hun's 4-1 triumph over Hamilton two days earlier was its first ever over the Hornets.

"The best game he's ever pitched for Hun," was McQuade's assessment of the four-hit performance by winning pitcher Drew Sigafoos. "He kept them off stride all game long."

Third baseman Al Kirchner had eight assists in a fine defensive performance at third for Hun. At the plate, Kirchner unloaded a two-run homer which followed a Dan Blank single and RBI double by Sigafoos to give Hun a 4-0 lead.

Hun had gotten out of a jam in the first — one of many — by throwing a runner out at the plate. Senior Dave Henn then led off the second with his first career homer, a blast over the left field fence. "That gave us a big lift after the jam we were in in the first," recalled McQuade. "That really picked us up."

Henn came up again in the third after the Hornets had loaded the bases on three walks. He lashed a drive to left center that had extra bases written all over it, but the leftfielder Charles Kirkland made a fine running catch to hold Hun's lead to one run.

"We don't like to play a school like Hamilton with a one run lead," observed McQuade. Kirschner too care of that.

Pingry Wins, 2-0. Hun (1-4) began the week by bowing to unbeaten (4-0) Pingry, 2-0. Tom Jingoli of Hun and Paul Levinsohn of Pingry hooked up in a pitchers' duel, which saw neither team score a run in the first five innings.

The Blue Hens broke through in the sixth, taking advantage of two Hun errors, including a dropped popup, to score two unearned runs.

"Errors cost us and we couldn't get the big hit when we needed it," said McQuade. He said the effort by Jingoli might have been the best game he ever pitched for Hun.

"He was in command all the way; he challenged the hitters. It was a shame he had to lose it."

Hun finished with five hits while Pingry had four, three from Adam Kurtz whose double broke the scoreless tie.

Hun has three tough opponents this week. It will host Trenton High this Wednesday afternoon, Steinert Saturday morning at 11 and Morrisville Monday afternoon at 3:45.

Hun Laxmen Lose Twice To Portledge and Peddie

It was not a good week for the Hun School lacrosse team.

On Saturday, Hun was defeated, 11-1, by Portledge School of Long Island, and earlier in the week the Raiders suffered a 5-2 loss at the hands of Peddie. Ken Fisherman and Gere Ricker scored for Hun in the loss to Peddie.

Ricker, a junior midfielder, scored the lone goal against Portledge, as the visitors took a commanding 9-0 lead at halftime. "It was 2-1 in the second half," noted Hun coach Dave Faus. "We finally started to play but Portledge had a very fine goalie and that was a key factor," he added.

In both losses, Hun was without the services of its standout senior player, Keith Green, who was playing in a basketball all-star game in Denver. "It definitely made a difference," said Faus.

As a result of the twin setbacks, Hun is looking for its first win after three losses.

In upcoming games, Hun will be at George School on Friday and will entertain Rutgers Prep on Tuesday at 4.

This Tuesday, it was scheduled to play host to Edison.

Jingoli Blanks PDS Nine On Two Hits for 10-0 Win

Tom Jingoli limited Princeton Day School to a pair of hits and Dave Henn and Nick Miller wielded the big bat as Hun shut out the Panthers Monday, 10-0.

"We needed this one to get our heads back on," said Hun coach Bill McQuade. "We played well today in comparison to our last start."

A little wild at the start, Jingoli settled down and struck out 10 in six innings. McQuade then let Chris Cane get his first varsity experience and the sophomore responded by retiring the three batters he faced in the final inning.

Catcher Dave Henn drove in two Hun runs in the first inning and later lashed a booming triple. "He's a hitter," said McQuade.

Rick Miller continued his hitting for Hun with a two-run double as Hun scored three more runs in the third inning to take a 5-0 lead and go on from there.

The win was Hun's second against four losses.

PDS 9 Stays Near .500 After Splitting 2 Games

Winning as many games as it loses has not been easy for the Princeton Day baseball team in recent seasons, but the Panthers are close to that goal in the five games so far.

Last week, the Blue and White knocked off winless Wardlaw, 11-2, on Friday, but lost to Hun on Monday, 10-0. Through five games PDS is 2-3.

Now, three games in the next four days will present a sterner test for the slim Panther mound corps. PDS will be on the road for all three, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday against Pennington, George and Montclair.

Two four-run innings against Wardlaw made things easy for pitcher Matt Lustig, who won his seond game in as many starts. He allowed six hits and fanned five in the five innings he worked.

Tim Howard had two hits and an RBI for PDS, and Matt Lucas, Don Shaffer and Mark Venable all knocked in runs for PDS, which benefitted almost every time it hit a ground ball to the Wardlaw shortstop.

Lustig also benefitted from a catch any major league centerfielder would have been proud to make. The Wardlaw batter hit a towering drive to dead center that Venable hauled in while falling down halfway up the embankment. Venable then got rid of the ball in time to double up a runner on first who was almost at third when the ball was caught.

No such gifts were available from Hun, however. The Red Raiders put this one away early, blanking the Panthers on just two hits.

PHS Girls Win 4 Events In County Relay Meet

The Princeton High girls track team won four events and the PHS boys two in Saturday's Mercer County Boys and Girls Relay Meet held at the Nottingham High Track.

PHS, as expected, won the 4x1600 distance relay behind Karin Swartz, Adele Riddle, Diana Hunt and Eva Klohnen in 23:47.0. The Little Tigers also won the 3x4IH (Susan Gray, Rachel Spear and Heather Gray), the sprint medley (Tracy Hemingway, Meg Parsons, Teressa DiPerna and Klohnen) and the distance medley (Susan and Heather Gray, Sarah Doig and Swartz).

In the javelin, Klohnen and DiPerna were edged 177-5 to 177-1 by Michelle Dietrich and Margaret Snarski of Steinert.

Although no "official" team scores were kept, team standings are carefully noted. Notre Dame was the unofficial team champion with 85 points, followed by Trenton with 59 and PHS with 54.

The PHS boys won one race and one field event.

Peter Paris jumped 6-8 and Tim Hannon cleared 6-0 for a combined 12-8 in the high jump. Hightstown was a distant second at 12-2.

The mark tied the previous PHS record in the event set by Peter Sharpless and Larry McKellar in 1981.

Princeton's lone triumph on the track came in the 4x800 where Alan Caulk, John Nyhan, Nathaniel McVey-Finney and Sean Nyhan were timed in 8:21.3. Steinert was second at 9:10.6.

Steinert dominated the team standings with 102 points. Trenton was second with 68 and Notre Dame third with 61. PHS finished fourth with 44 points.

PHS was second in the 4x110HH where Caulk, Pat McKellar, Jensen and Nirva Jean-Louis combined for a 1:06.1. Steinert won the event in 1:05.0.

In dual meet competition last week, the boys upset Trenton, 72½ to 58½ and the girls lost to Trenton, 74-48, as both evened their records at 1-1.

Both teams will compete in the Highland Park relays on Saturday and the girls will entertain George School on Friday at 3:30 in a dual meet.

PHS Netmen Edge HV But Lose to Panthers

The Princeton High School tennis team edged league rival Hopewell Valley, 3-2, Friday when it won all three singles matches but it was surprised two days earlier by Princeton Day School. PDS blanked the Little Tigers, 4-0.

Mark Leschly stopped Hopewell's Quentin Kelly, 6-2, 6-2, Bruce Ellis handled Chris Durham easily, 6-1, 6-0, and Stig Leschly defeated George Luber, 6-2, 6-1 in singles play to carry PHS past Hopewell Valley. Both PHS doubles lost in straight sets, although the number two PHS doubles of Peter Bergman and Mike Mullen extended Hopewell's Buzz Hollander and Colin Campbell before losing, 5-7, 5-7.

Menendez Tops Leschly. One string was broken and one continued when PHS squared off last week against PDS.

The Panthers, who had never defeated PHS in a regular season match, ended that string with a 4-0 victory, and PDS's top player, Lyle Menendez, who has never lost to Princeton's number one player, Mark Leschly, continued his string with a 6-1, 6-3 victory.

The margin of defeat did not surprise PHS coach Joe Diefenbach. "I figured we could have lost, 5-0, or we could have won it 4-1 or 3-2. It could have gone either way."

Younger brother Stig Leschly had his hands full with Berger Catholic transfer student Reed Newhall in the number three singles, as Newhall won, 6-3, 6-1.

LUCKY TO HAVE THIS LEFTY: Whatever number of games the Princeton Day baseball team wins this spring, most victories will come off the strong left arm of junior Matt Lustig, who has won his first two.

At second singles, Princeton High's Bruce Ellis lost the first set, 5-7, to Eric Menendez, won the second, 6-2, and was ahead, 4-3, when the match was called because of darkness.

PDS had alrady sewn up the outcome by sweeping both doubles, both three setters.

Marc Collins and George Dodds of PDS defeated Bruce Goodman and Roger Ahuja, 7-6 (7-5), 3-6, 6-3, while Mullen and Bergman bowed, 4-6, 6-4, 4-6 to Mark Payton and Jivan Datta-Mark.

"They're good. You can't take anything away from them," said Diefenbach of the Panthers.

Can't Hold Early Lead; PHS Girls Tied 2d Time

One can make quips about being fit to be tied, but the Princeton High girls' lacrosse team isn't happy with the way the season has started.

For the second time in two starts, the Little Tigers, the defending state champions, failed to hold an earlier lead and were tied.

In its home opener Saturday, PHS jumped to a 3-0 lead against visiting Strath Haven from suburban Philadelphia's Central League, but allowed the visitors to score the next four goals. The final score was a 7-7 deadlock.

In its opening game against Columbia, PHS was ahead by two goals with two minutes left but, again, it allowed the opposition to tie the score. Columbia, which had entered the game with a 2-0 record, outscored PHS 7-5 in the second half to earn an 11-11 tie.

"We've got to learn to maintain our intensity, once we get ahead of teams," commented PHS coach Joyce Jones.

Junior Sara Pickens scored the game's first two goals and veteran Amy Kershaw added another to put PHS up by three against Strath Haven (3-1-1). After the Panthers went ahead, 4-3, Aileen Causing tied it. The visitors' captain, Jill Noyes, then scored her only goal to give SH a 5-4 halftime lead.

In the second half, the PHS defense limited the visitors to a pair of goals while Kathy Herring scored twice for PHS. PHS co-captain, Booie Lockwood, scored the game's final goal in the last five minutes to earn the tie. Sophomore goalie Suzanne Maman had 14 saves for PHS and Ellen Morrison had a dozen for Strath Haven.

Four for Causing. In the opener, Aileen Causing with four goals and Kershaw with three were the top scorers for Princeton, which led, 6-4 at the half.

Also scoring for the Little Tigers were Tory Crimmins, Herring, Pickens and Hewson. PHS goalie Rebecca VanDyke had 18 saves.

In upcoming games, PHS will be at Peddie this Wednesday and host Morristown Friday at 4.
